Mrs. Harrill Fetes Thursday Book Club

The Thursday Afternoon Book Club held its June meeting with Mrs. E. A. Harrill. The Harrill home was lovely with summer flowers. Mrs. J. E. Anthony, president, presided over the routine business session. Mrs. W. E. Blakely in a very pleasing and charming manner spoke on "Fabulous Fireplaces" by Lowell Thomas telling the history of the stones used in the fireplace. The hostess assisted by Mrs. L. C. Parsons and little Jack Parsons served a congealed salad course with accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridges Host To Clubs

Mr. and Mrs. Glee E. Bridges were hosts on Saturday night to members of the Hi-Lo and Couples Bridge Clubs. For the occasion the home was beautifully decorated with dyed daisies and potted plants. When the guests arrived, covers were laid and a delicious dessert course was served. Nuts, candy and Cokes were passed during the plays.

After several progressions of bridge, scores were added and high score was presented Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Suber, Jr. Mrs. Suber also received the floating prize for bidding and making a slam. Mr. and Mrs. Jack White, Mr. and Mrs. Faison Barnes were invited to play with the members.

Mrs. J. A. Cohoon of Shelby left Friday for Nashville, Tenn., to attend a regional meeting of Luzier's Cosmetics and perfumes at the Jackson Hotel. Mrs. Cohoon is District Manager for Luzier's in this area.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith, Paul Smith and Miss Mary Rumpfle are visiting Pvt. Houston Smith at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. Miss Nan Jean Gantt left Sunday for Asheville to enroll in the Plonk School of Creative Art.

Miss McMillian Bride Of R. S. Plonk, Jr.

Miss Marie Adele McMillan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer McMillan of Charlotte, and Rufus Sloan Plonk of Bessemer City, were wedded Saturday at noon in the chapel of the Myers Park Presbyterian church in a ceremony of beauty and charm. Dr. James A. Jones, pastor of the church, officiated. The chapel had a towering background of woodwardia and lace fern and branched candelabra holding ca-thedral tapers, interspersed with large arrangements of Easter lilies and white gladioli. The family pews were marked with clusters of white flowers and greenery tied with white satin bows.

Clarence Efters, organist, played "Serenade" from "The Student Prince," "You'll Never Walk Alone," and "I Love You Truly" on the chimes, after which "Liebestraum," by Liszt, "Meditation" from "Thais" and "I Love Thee" by Grieg were played on the organ. The wedding march from the third act of "Lohengrin," Wagner, was played for the processional, and Mendelssohn's march from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was used for the recessional. During the service "To A Wild Rose," MacDowell, was played and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte was played for the benediction. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and the bride groom had his father as best man. The ushers were John Ormand, Jr., of Monroe, Thomas Plonk, Jr., of Lakeland, Fla., and William Plonk of Charlotte, all cousins of the bridegroom, and Major Charles W. Sample of Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. Francis Addington, first cousin of the bride, of Crozet, Va., was matron of honor, Ann Marie Addington was flower girl. The bride wore a gown of candlelight Point-De-Leon lace over satin fashioned with brief sleeves and scoop decolletage edged with French illusion ruffling. The molded bodice accented the full skirt which fell over deep net ruffles. The fingertip, tiered veil of French illusion was worn with a pearl laced calash bonnet of lace. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of fleur d'amour and stephanotis centered with large white hybrid orchids against sprays of imported lace leaves. The matron of honor wore an ankle-length gown of camellia organza fashioned with a fitted bodice, standing fichu collar, and bouffant skirt with a diagonal panel of imported embroidered organza. Her slippers were pale pink. She carried a cascade bouquet of Babum lilies, Aristocrat roses, and pink daisies. The flower girl's dress was designed after that worn by her mother, the matron of honor. She wore ballet shoes laced with ribbon and carried a nosegay of roses, pink daisies, and small mixed summer flowers. Mrs. McMillan, mother of the bride, wore a pearl grey dress with dusty rose accessories, and a pink orchid bouquet. Mrs. Plonk, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue-grey dress with white accessories and a lavender orchid bouquet.

After the ceremony a small reception was held in the Panel room of the church, given by the bride's parents. The rooms had massive arrangements of white flowers and greenery.

The bridegroom was graduated from Davidson college where he was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity. He served five years with the armed forces and received a battlefield commission and was awarded the Silver Star medal, also the Croix de Guerre. He is now employed by the Esso Standard Oil Company in Charlotte. Among those attending from Kings Mountain were Misses May and Ethel Plonk, Calvin Plonk, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ormand, Mrs. M. L. Plonk, Miss Jett Plonk, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Harmon, Jr.

Plonk School Opens Session

ASHEVILLE—Classes in speech, drama, music and creative living are now being conducted for juniors and adults at the Plonk School of Creative Arts, 1 Sunset Parkway, Asheville. Registration opened on Wednesday, June 27. Classes began at 9 o'clock the following morning. They are meeting five days a week for six weeks, concluding Wednesday, August 8.

Enrollments are also still being accepted for small classes and tutoring in academic subjects, including French, Spanish, English, mathematics and reading. Any of these subjects may be taken by children and adults registering for the six weeks' term.

On the high school and college levels, subjects available include vocal modulation, public speaking, and harmonic training for body freedom.

Classes in ndition, singing, and chorus are held for the training of voice. Interpretative work includes platform art, short stories, modern and classic poetry, scenes from Shakespeare and other plays.

Classes in spiritual training are held for all students. Full credit toward a diploma from the Plonk School is given high school graduates and college students and graduates upon completion of summer courses.

Veterans may register under the G. I. Bill of rights. This season inaugurates the twenty-eighth year of Plonk School summer sessions.

Acres of sweet corn, tomatoes, and cucumbers for processing are expected to be up sharply this year. The snap bean, green pea, and lima bean acreages also will show increases. Most other processing crops will be planted on about the same acreage as last year.
