Miss Iva Lingerfelt, G. N. Lovelace, Jr. Wed In Church Ceremony Saturday

In a beautiful candlelight ceremony solemnized Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in St. Matthews Evangelical Lutheran church, Miss Iva Maud Lingerfelt of Kings Mountain became the bride of George Nathan Lovelace of Kings Mountain and Lattimore.

Dr. William P. Gerberding, pastor of the church, heard the couple pledge the vows of the double ring service.

Arrangements of white gladioli and candelabra holding white tapers were interspersed with ferns and pine branches which provided background greenery. Pine sprays and white tapers adorned the choir rail and the bases of the two front windows which flanked the chancel.

The candles were lighted by Philip Mauney, Mrs. J. E. Herndon, organist, and Miss Betty Falls, vocal soloist, presented a program of wedding music.

SATIN, LACE GOWN
Wesley M. Lingerfelt of Bessemer City, uncle of the bride, gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace and slipper satin fashioned with moulded lace bodice with high neckline, mandarin collar, cap sleeves, and covered buttons down the front, lace peplum, and satin skirt. Her two-tiered, lace-trimmed fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a scalloped filigree coronet of seed pearls and she wore short lace mitts to match the lace of her gown. She carried a nosegay of white delphinium and maline puffs arranged around a purple orchid and showered with white satin streamers.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Norman Roper, attended her as matron of honor and little Patricia Ann Fite was flower girl.

The honor matron wore a gown of light blue taffeta with off-shoulder neckline, fitted bodice, and bouffant skirt and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers in pastel tones of pink, white and yellow, tied with pink ribbons. Her headdress was a half-circlet of flowers to match her nosegay. The flower girl wore a white organdy dress, a strand of baby pearls given to her by the bride, and a half-circlet headdress of mixed pastel flowers. She carried a little white basket filled with rose petals.

HONORARY BRIDESMAIDS
Miss Betty Ledford, Miss Eva Nell Ross, Mrs. Bill Babb, all of Kings Mountain, Mrs. Boyce Huffstetter of Spartanburg, S. C., and Miss Dorothy Tessener and Miss Laura Carpenter of Charlotte were honorary bridesmaids and were seated in special pews at the front of the church.

Evans Cooper of Kings Mountain, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man and Bill Babb, also of Kings Mountain, nephew of the bridegroom, and Toy Summers of Forest City cousin of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Lingerfelt, mother of the bride, wore a dress of plum accessories and a corsage of pink carnations at her shoulder and Mrs. Lovelace, mother of the bridegroom wore a purple two-piece suit with black accessories and a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

RECEIVED IN VESTIBULE
There was no reception but the bride and bridegroom stood in the vestibule after the ceremony to greet wedding guests. Mrs. Edwin Dixon and Mrs. Max Fite, both of Kings Mountain were in the vestibule to invite guests to write their names in the bride's register.

Mrs. Lovelace, daughter of Mrs. John P. Lingerfelt and the late Mr. Lingerfelt of Kings Mountain, is a graduate of the high school and is employed at the Dixie Home store in Bessemer City.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Nathan Lovelace of Lattimore, is a member of the senior class at Bethware high school this year and is employed with Neisler Mills in Kings Mountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Lingerfelt are honeymooning in the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee and when they return will be at home at 204 West King street, Kings Mountain.

Mrs. Will D. Hood and Mrs. A. H. Rose, of Smithfield, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Lattimore. Other guests in the home during the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Holt of Smithfield.
