New Chamber for U.N. Security Council

This is a general view of the new Security Council chamber at United Nations Headquarters. Measuring 135 by 72 feet with 24-foot ceiling, the chamber is completely equipped with facilities for technical services, including simultaneous interpretation, press, radio, and television booths. The Security Council chamber was designed by Arneasta Arneberg of Norway, whose government contributed some $15,000 for its decoration. Seating arrangements in the Security Council, as well as in the Trusteeship and the Economic and Social Council, will accommodate around 320 persons.

Land Reform Urged By UN E-S Council

problems as they exist today in many parts of the world, the United Nations report emphasizes that land reform, if it is to be effective, must comprise improvement in all the social and economic conditions affecting farm life. In many countries, for example, interest paid by those who work the land is usurious—ranging from 20 per cent to 100 per cent a year.
