

Calf Sales On State-Wide Basis

Some 3,500 animals are expected to be entered in 14 feed calf sales to be held in North Carolina during 1952, according to J. S. Buckanan, livestock specialist for the State College Extension Service.

For the first time, the sales have been organized on a State-wide basis.

Although the sales will not be held until September and October, prospective sellers need to do several things right now to get their animals ready.

For example, all calves entered in the sales must be vaccinated for blackleg. They must also be vaccinated for shipping fever at least 10 days prior to the sale.

No bull calves will be sold. All animals must be dehorned. Every precaution must be taken to see that heifer calves are not bred.

Only calves of strictly beef breeding will be accepted for sales. Both steer and heifer calves will be included.

All heifer calves will be tested for Bang's disease when delivered to the sale. All animals must be field-inspected and approved by the sales committee prior to the day of the sale.

No yearling cattle or calves under 300 pounds in weight will be accepted.

All animals entering the sale ring must be sold. No consignors will have a "no sale" privilege.

Three 4-H'ers Will Go Abroad In 1952

At least three young North Carolinians will go abroad in 1952 as "grass roots ambassadors" under the International Farm Youth Exchange program according to L. R. Harriott, State 4-H Club leader for the State College Extension Service.

Young people from 20 to 28 years of age who are interested in making one of the trips should apply to the local county farm agent or home demonstration agent, or write Harriott at State College.

On a national scale, a grant of up to $150,000 has been made by the Ford Foundation to the National 4-H Club Foundation to continue and expand the International Farm Youth project this year.

No government funds are used in financing the program, which is dedicated to the belief that understanding is the foundation of world peace.

The IFYE program seeks to further international understanding among rural people. Delegates from farms in this country live and work with farm families in other countries for four to six months. At the same time, rural youth from cooperating countries come here for similar experience.

Last year, 75 American young men and women visited 29 foreign countries, while 45 exchanges from abroad came to the United States. With the assistance of the Ford grant, this year's program will be expanded to 135 two-way exchanges with some 40 countries in Europe, the Near and Far East, Latin America, the South Pacific, Asia, and Africa.

Sue Nichols, 20, Wake County 4-H Club girl, is now in Australia under the IFYE program.

From 1941 to 1950, gross production per man-hour in industry increased 11 per cent. In agriculture the increase was 35 per cent.

From June, 1945, to June, 1946, the United States exported more than 17 million tons of food. The following year the total exceeded 19 million tons.

Harnett County's commercial beef herds have come through the winter in excellent condition, largely because of wider use of temporary and permanent pastures, says County Agent C. R. Ammons.

Along with other crewmen serving aboard the destroyer escort USS Alvin C. Cockrell, Claud Barrett, seaman, USN, formerly of Gant, Kings Mountain, recently participated in the largest Pacific Fleet training exercises held since the Korean outbreak.

The exercises, called "Lex Baker One," took place off the coast of Southern California. Over 70 ships and 15,000 men of the Navy and the newly activated Third Marines participated.

Reality was added to the mock war games by assuming that lower California and several islands off the shore had been captured by an "aggressor" enemy. The Navy's problem was the retaking of the enemy-held islands through amphibious assaults.

Ships of all types were used in the exercises including submarines and aircraft carriers.

"Aggressor" submarines and planes made repeated "attacks" in harassing the task force, adding even more reality to the operation.
