Cake Cutting Held In Caldwell Home

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Caldwell entertained at their home Friday night immediately following the rehearsal for the Caldwell-Payseur wedding.

Floral arrangements of pink and white glads were used in the home.

The dining room was in candlelight and arrangements of white gladioli created a bridal motif. The table was overlaid with a white linen cloth. The large three tiered wedding cake was used in the center of the table flanked on either side with silver candlesticks holding lighted tapers.

After the bride and groom had cut the first piece of cake, it was cut and served by Misses Cornelia Gantt and Betty Wilson. Punch was served by Mrs. T. J. Ellison.

Turkey, frozen salad, sandwiches and slaw were served buffet style.

The bridal party, members of the immediate families and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mauney, Mrs. James Jonas, Mrs. B. W. Lefler, Miss Lorene Jonas, Miss Cletus Payseur and T. J. Ellison enjoyed the lovely affair.

Mrs. Kerns Entertains Entre-Nous Bridge Club

Nurserymen Elect Cherryville Man

CHERRYVILLE — Howell Stroup, owner of the Cherryville Nursery, was elected Vice-president of the North Carolina Association of Nurserymen at its meeting held recently at State college. Dan Reynolds of the L. A. Reynolds Company of Winston-Salem was elected President.

The meeting was held in connection with the 14th. annual Nurserymen's Short Course which opened at the college and run several days. About 70 nurserymen attended.

Reynolds succeeds James S. Melton of New River Nursery, Hubert, who has served as president the past year. Elco Pinga of Pinga Nursery, Wilmington was reelected Secretary Treasurer.

The association adopted two resolutions. The first urged that North Carolina join in the Plant America" program sponsored by the American Association of Nurserymen and now in effect in 21 states. The program includes highway and home beautification, planting for conservation, and planting for beautification around public buildings.

The second resolution urged that a program of certification for bud and graft wood, similar to seed certification be put into effect in North Carolina. Certification would be based on such factors as freedom from disease, disease resistance, livability and productivity.

The resolution will be sent to the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. Only four or five states now have a certification program for bud and graft wood.

Livestock Ceilings Hurt NC Consumers

R. Flake Shaw, of Greensboro, executive vice president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, said today that price ceilings on livestock and livestock products have hurt North Carolina consumers instead of helping them.

He declared that price controls have been responsible for a 7 percent cut in consumer meat supplies, and predicted the general public would get even less meat this year.

"Before price controls were imposed," Shaw said, "the U. S. Department of Agriculture officially reported that the average person got 143.7 pounds of meat to eat in 1950 before price controls came into effect. But during 1951, the first year of price controls, the average person got only 138.2 pounds of meat."

The Farm Bureau official said, "unless the control provisions in the Defense Production Act relating to price ceilings on raw agricultural commodities are repealed meat producers will find it increasingly difficult to stay in business."

Shaw pointed out that "price controls will continue to curtail meat production because of the uncertainty they create and the maldistribution they cause. Since the public's demand for available meat supplies determine price levels, the decreased production caused by controls injure consumers in two ways: 1. It deprives consumers of meat which they otherwise would have had; and 2. It keeps prices higher than they would have been if production had reached the levels expected before the controls were applied."
