Series Of Meetings Held By Town Club

Misses Cornelia Ware and Nora Jane Deese were co-hostesses to the Town Club on Saturday, March 29 at the Woman's Club.

The hostesses used arrangements of spring flowers as decorations.

During the evening dancing and card games were enjoyed.

Cokes, cookies, sandwiches, potato chips and carrots were served to the members present.

Miss Ann Mayes was hostess to the Town Club Saturday, April 5 at her home on Ridge street.

The group watched television, and played cards.

Daffodils, Ivy and dried arrangements added a festive note to the meeting.

Miss Mayes served cokes, sandwiches, and potato chips.

Drunken Driving Costs 894 Licenses

RALEIGH.—Driving drunk cost the legal driving privileges of 894 Tarheel motorists in March the Department of Motor Vehicles reported today.

The March summary of drunk drivers was up slightly from the previous month's 823. The Department's summary of violations requiring the surrender of operator's permits listed 111 convictions for two offenses of drunk driving; 91 for speeding over 75 mph; 64 for two offenses of speeding over 55 mph; 62 for driving after license had been revoked; and 45 for two offenses of reckless driving.

Miscellaneous violations including larceny of automobile, involuntary manslaughter, improper use of driver's license, unsatisfied judgement, habitual violator, hit and run, and transporting liquor resulted in the revocation of 1,280 operator's permits and the suspension of 501 others during March.

Former Resident Is Public School Teacher In Atlanta, Ga., System

A former Kings Mountain native and citizen has set upon a new venture, teaching school near her Atlanta, Ga., home.

Mrs. Milton Fryer, the former Miss Hazel Herndon daughter of Elmer Herndon, now of Charlotte, has entered the teaching field after hitching as a New York businesswoman, with the Red Cross overseas in World War II and more recently as a housewife and mother of two children.

Mrs. Fryer met and married her husband in Europe. He is a native of Racine, Wisconsin, and the couple resided here for about two years. The children are Gregg, age four, and Phyllis, age two.

Concerning her new venture as a public school teacher, the North DeKalb Record and Norcross News, a weekly paper published in North Atlanta, recently wrote:

"For those youngsters who don't enjoy reading, geography CAN be a bore.

"Mrs. Hazel H. Fryer, the seventh grade teacher at Dogville, doesn't believe in letting school be a bore, so she set out to let her students see for themselves the wonders of the United States, their geography subject for this year.

"One of the results is a project completed last week in which teams of seventh graders worked together on models of some of the phases of U. S. life: forestry, fishing, farming, mining, education, fruit, cattle, travel and communication, and industry.

"A tiny model of the Doraville Elementary School, Chamblee High, a university, and library represented education.

"Mining was represented by a model mine, with a railroad track and cars full of coal coming out. The mine office was over to one side. On a shelf behind the mine were samples of products mined in the U. S.—gold, silver, aluminum, coal, lead, etc. This model won second prize and was constructed by Claudia Brown, Alvel O'Bryant and Elsie Mae Wilson.

"First place went to the forestry display, which showed a forest a saw mill, and lumbering camp, complete with the logs being shipped down to the lumber mill by water. This was constructed by Bobby Ficken, Mabry Manderson and Bobby Burel.

Capacity Crowd Sees Class Play

The Kings Mountain high school senior class play "Introducing Susan", was presented Friday night before a capacity crowd.

Under the direction of Mrs. Emma Crowe, the play kept the audience in laughter and was highly entertaining.

Outstanding roles were portrayed by Johnny Kiser, who was cast as Buddy Chalmers, a football player, who posed as the wife of Dick Heatherby, a college professor; played by Charles Mauney; Ann Mayes, as Susan, the professor's wife who leaves after a marital quarrel; Suzanne Arrowood, as Violet, the cook; Jim Crawford, as Cyclone, Violet's "little" brother.

The play was well cast with Barbara Gault, Jack Still, Melba Tindall, Evelyn Cline, Paul McGinnis, Charles Painter and Reginald Murray portraying excellent supporting roles.

Members of the production staff for the play were:

Katie Jones, business manager; Gene Austin, stage manager; Phyllis Ware, prompter; Jean Owens and Douglas Falls, programs; Mrs. Mabel G. Carpenter, Miss Catherine Bollick and Miss Mary Mallard, costumes; I. B. Goforth, Jr., set; Miss Mildred McKinney, make-up.

Music was furnished by the girls trio, Evelyn Cline, Melba Tindall, and Dolores Davidson, directed by Howard Coble.

Ruby Crawford, Ruth Crawford, Rachel Plonk, Dorothy Goforth, Jo Ann Stewart and Betty Gladden served as ushers.
