Kings Mountain high school drew an 18-3 humiliation at Ruthersford-Spindale high's home field last Friday afternoon as Coach "Pop" Simmon's nine exploded for 14 hits including three homers, a triple and a trio of doubles. Kings Mountain was never in the game as Cecil Stott tripled behind Parton's double in the opening frame and Scott came in on an error for a pair of markers. The winners got another pair off Starter Charles Painter in the second inning and in the third the roof caved in.

Big blow was a homer by Ray Tomberlin with the socks laced sending Painter to the showers. Ken Dalton came on and Parton greeted him a few minutes later with another four-master, with one on, in the big eighth frame, Parton again homered.

Franklin Platt and Dean Smith each had two hits for Kings Mountain.

Youth May Apply For Scholarships Now

Four scholarships valued at $200 each — two in agriculture and two in arts-hrdhrldurdu and two in home economics — are available this year to North Carolina high school seniors or graduates under the Kroger Scholarship Plan.

Announcement of the awards was made by Dr. C. H. Bostian, director of instruction in the School of Agriculture at North Carolina State College, who said applications must be filed by June 1, 1952.

Recipients of the awards, Dr. Bostian said, will be announced on or before August 1. The scholarships will be available this fall.

Winners of the agricultural scholarships may enroll at State College, and winners of the home economics scholarships may register at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Requests for application blanks and other information on the home economics awards may be obtained by writing Scholarship and Loans Committee, Woman's College, Greensboro, North Carolina.

Students desiring applications blanks and other data on the agricultural scholarships should write Dr. C. H. Bostian, School of Agriculture, North Carolina State College, Raleigh.

The awards, Dr. Bostian explained, will be made on the basis of scholastic achievements in high school as well as leadership qualities demonstrated in school, church, and youth organizations. Need for financial aid will be considered.

Current holders of the scholarships, all awarded by the Kroger Company, are Patricia Mae Gordon of Mount Airy and Mary Glenn Randall, student at Woman's College, and Hubert Carter, Jr., of Winston-Salem and Alfred Robinson of Newton, students at North Carolina State College.

KM Telephone Office Investing In Bonds

Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company has been working for the past several months to obtain a goal of 100 percent of employees buying US Savings bonds through the pay roll saving plan, according to information received by Mrs. Jack Annette, chief operator of the Kings Mountain office.

Mrs. Annette stated that employees in the traffic department of the Charlotte district have reached 63.9 per cent as of March 29th. The Charlotte district, made up of seven surrounding towns, has a total of 950 employees in the traffic department.

The Kings Mountain office has had 100 percent buying bonds since February. A total of 23 is employed at the office here.

We are working hard and expect to reach the goal of the district in the near future, Mrs. Annette said.

and the world are strained by tensions probably with no parallel in human history. Schools, churches, and youth programs contribute greatly to the development of character and strength in the child, but none can touch the influence of a mother and a good home. The opportunity for home demonstration workers and others to intensify their efforts in line with this year's slogan is unlimited. Certainly the reward for such increased effort will be great. Weaver Praises HD Members

PRaises HD Members — North Carolina's 69,481 home demonstration club members, who will join in observing National Home Demonstration Week, April 27-May 3, are praised for their accomplishments in a statement released this week by David S. Weaver, director of the State College Extension Service.

"In North Carolina," says Weaver, "home demonstration clubs have established themselves as one of the finest ways to bring to the attention of the people of the nation on the great contribution that home demonstration members are making," says David S. Weaver, director of the State College Extension Service.

"Everyone recognizes their influence upon all of the people as well as upon the citizens of the future. While the principles of better family living that are applied to such things as nutrition, clothing, housing, recreation, and spiritual development are recognized, another great influence may be oftentimes overlooked. I refer to the opportunity which mothers and wives have in teaching and in practicing tolerance, broadmindedness, and the dignity of the individual.

"As the twig is bent, so grows the tree" could well be translated "As the child is taught, so grows the nation." This is why the theme of National Home Demonstration Week, "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World," is so aptly chosen while our nation ated to the task of making the rural homes of America strong. Their achievements in the past show their ability to do the job and their work stands as a shining example of what a coordinated plan, properly executed, can accomplish. As workers in the home and as professional workers in home demonstration programs celebrate National Home Demonstration Week, the rest of the nation can well afford to pause and pay tribute to them.

GARDEN TIME

Here is the information I promised on varieties and planting of dahlias. For the beginner I suggest the following varieties which have done well for me: Jane Cowf, large bronze; Cherokee Brave, large red; Michigan White, medium white; Jersey Beauty, medium pink; Edgar Guest, large yellow; King David, large purple; Mrs. E. J. medium pink; Kirsten Flagstad, large orange; World Event, large pink. Of the miniature type I can recommend the following: Market Glory, white Faun, Little Lemon Drop, Andrea's Orange, Ike, Fuchsia Gem and Little Peaches. Of the pompon type, the following are the best: Little Kath, Snowcat, Betty Anne, Yellow Gem, Sherry, Tom, Morning large enough to accommodate the roots to be planted. It is advisable to drive a 5 foot stake at each hill before planting. Small roots are as good as large roots, and probably better. You will find an eye or sprout at the stem end of the root. In planting, place the root flat in the bottom of the hole with the sprout or eye facing up and about 3 inches from the stake. In sandy soils the hole may be filled to the top, but in clay soils it may be best to fill in 2 to 3 inches over the root until the sprout has come up. Then the rest of the soil may be filled in.

Dahlias should be cultivated once a week unless a mulch is used. Four to six inches of straw mulch will take the place of cultivation. With the large flowered varieties, as soon as the stem has developed 3 sets of leaves the top should be pinched out. As soon as the first buds develop apply a handful of garden fertilizer around each plant and again about September 1. Keep the plants tied to the stake to prevent damage by storms.
