The H. C. Mayes Give Debutante Breakfast

Around 800 persons attended the Shelby Junior Charity League's seventh Sub-Debutante ball held in the armory auditorium Saturday evening, at which sixty-four sub-debs from Western North and South Carolina towns made their social debut.

The ball opened with the debutante figure, presented by the sixty-four sub-debutantes and their escorts, each girl having two escorts. The glamorous white gowns worn by the girls was highlighted by their brilliant arm bouquets of red roses, tied with red ribbons, which cascaded from the bouquets almost to the hems of their gowns. Miss Patricia Jarrett, of Shelby, reigned as queen of the ball. Her attendants were Miss Alice Albert of Shelby and Miss Catherine Morrison, of Gastonia.

After the figure, many of those attending joined the sub-debs and their marshals for dance to the music of Ziggy Hurwitz and his orchestra.

Crosscrossed ribbons of blue, white and yellow crepe paper formed a canopy above the dance floor and the balcony rails were draped with wide bands of sapphire blue paper, which were studded with brilliant paper metallic stars, creating a festive setting for the occasion.

The four debutantes from Kings Mountain, Miss Barbara

Two-thirds of the nation's oil wells are stripper wells (those from which only a relatively small amount of oil is pumped per day). They account for one-fifth of the country's crude production.

If all the wells drilled in the search for oil and gas in the U. S. in the last eight years were laid end to end, they would reach all the way through the earth and out into space more than half way to the moon.
