

Mrs. Ware's Rites Held Tuesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Lovelace Ware, 81, resident of route 3, Oak Grove community, who suffered a broken hip ten days ago, were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from Oak Grove Baptist church.

The Rev. C. C. Crowe officiated and interment was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Ware, who died Sunday at 4:20 p. m. in a Gastonia hospital, was the daughter of the late Thomas and Julia Ann Hamrick Lovelace. She was married 63 years ago last March to Thomas W. Ware.

Surviving in addition to her husband are: four sons, R. A. Frank, Ben, and Hunter Ware, all of Kings Mountain; five daughters, Mrs. Bob Lewis of Blackstock, S. C., Mrs. Bertha Ross of Bessemer City, Mrs. Georgia Welch of Grover, Mrs. Bessie Goforth and Mrs. Pearl Bell, both of Kings Mountain. Also surviving are 48 grandchildren and 70 great-grand children.

Grandsons of Mrs. Ware served as active pallbearers.

Generally U. S. farms need about four times as much lime and about five times as much superphosphates as they are now getting. Under Secretary of Agriculture Clarence J. McCormick says we need four times as much strip-cropping, about five times as much green manure and cover crops, and about 30 times as much contour farming as is now done.

LABORATORY TECHNICIAN — W. V. (Bill) Gault, laboratory technician at the Kings Mountain Hospital, is shown above at his microscope. Mr. Gault, who came to the hospital in April of this year, handles most routine lab procedures, including blood tests, basil metabolism tests, and microscopic work. He plays a vital role in the life of the hospital here.

MEET YOUR HOSPITAL STAFF

Bill Gault, Native Son, Is Lab Technician, General Handy Man

The citizens of Kings Mountain are indeed proud of their hospital, something they have looked forward to and wanted for years and years. They are also proud of the workers of that hospital, those fine folk who make Kings Mountain hospital what it is. The Herald, in this series of articles, wants to introduce to you those men and women who constitute our hospital staff.

One of the members of that staff, W. V. (Bill) Gault plays a vital role in the life of that place, especially the laboratory because he is the technician. He handles most routine lab procedures, including blood tests, basil metabolism tests, and does microscopic work.

In the above picture taken in the laboratory of the Kings Mountain hospital, Mr. Gault is shown at his microscope. He also is in charge of X-raying — and he explained that the X-ray unit is capable of producing 125,000 volts, and that the laboratory has the latest up-to-date equipment.

Bill Gault graduated from Central high school in 1946. He spent two years in the navy, prior to his graduation from Central. From there he went to Asheville Dell School of Medical Technology for a year and a half and then took a six months training course at Andrews.

Before coming to Kings Mountain hospital, Mr. Gault was with the Shelby hospital, working in the X-ray department, and at the same time relieving the technologist at the Kings Mountain hospital. He came to the hospital here in April of this year.

Mr. Gault is registered with the American Medical Technologists. He was married in June of '49 and his wife, Mrs. Johnnie H. Gault works at the hospital here as a registered nurse.

"When he was asked how he liked his work, he said, 'Just fine, but a laboratory technician has a 24 hour call duty.' Kings Mountain hospital is fortunate in having so capable a person as their technician."

Monday's Court Session Long

Judge Jack White heard a long docket at regular session of City Recorder's Court Monday.

Alberta McClure, Negress, charged with assault on Lillie Mae Flucker, Negress, was found guilty as charged. Judgment was 30 days work on the roads, judgment suspended upon condition that she pay the costs of court.

The defendant testified that the fracas which ensued was the result of an argument between the two as to the kinship between them. Prosecuting witness, Lillie Flucker, testified that "it was no shoe she hit me with." Both said they had been drinking. The fracas occurred en route to the Four-Hundred Club. William MacCabe and Johnny McClure, husband of the defendant, were in the car at the time.

Woodrow Wallace and H. D. Berry, Negroes, were found guilty as charged of assault with a pocket knife on Otis Whisnant, another Negro youth.

The two defendants testified that the prosecuting witness allegedly tried to run over them, that when Whisnant apologized, they followed him down to a cafe, where the argument ensued. Both boys were given 30 days on the road, judgment suspended upon the condition that both be of good behavior for 4 months, they pay a fine of $15, and costs of court.

Lawrence White, charged with illegal possession of non-taxed paid whiskey, was found guilty and sentenced to 90 days work on the roads, judgment suspended upon the condition that he pay a fine of $20 and the costs of court.

Howard L. Blanton, charged with speeding, was sentenced to 30 days work on the roads, judgment suspended upon payment of a $5 fine and costs of court.

Marshall Lee Gantt, charged with speeding, was sentenced to 30 days work on the roads, judgment suspended upon the payment of the costs of court.

Case against James O. Snyder, charged with fornication and adultery, was not pressed, with leave due to the absence of the witnesses.

Case against Curtis Smith, Negro, charged with assault on a female, was continued for two weeks due to the absence of the prosecuting witness. A capias was issued for Carol Lee Smith, prosecutress.

Capiases were issued for Walter Lawson Jenkins, charged with speeding, Marshall Wright, charged with abandonment and non-support, and two cases of public drunkenness.

Four persons were found guilty of public drunkenness, while three other cases of public drunkenness were continued.

Elmer J. Huffstetter, charged with public drunkenness, was found not guilty of charge in view of the testimony of investigating officers, the judge said.

Charles Ray Kimbrell was found guilty on two charges of public drunkenness and one charge of violation of a 60 day good-behavior suspended sentence, thereby forcing the sentence to go into effect, Judge White said.

On the first charge, defendant was sentenced to 30 days work on the roads, judgment to run concurrently with suspended sentence.
