Margrace Club Complete Plans For Christmas Party

The regular meeting of the Margrace Club was held Friday night in the club house. Mrs. Haskell Wilson conducted the devotional and Mrs. C. W. Falls presided over the meeting.

Plans were completed for the annual Christmas party for the children of the village. The party will be held around the Christmas tree on the mill lawn. Santa will have a small gift for each child through ten years of age. In case of inclement weather, the Christmas carols will be sung and presents delivered by Santa in the club house. The party will be held Saturday evening, December 20th at five p. m.

Mesdames John Jenkins, A. S. Lynch, Arthur Hamrick, and Clifford Kircus were hostesses for the meeting. They served a pretty party plate consisting of congealed salad, sandwiches, pickles, mints, and colas.

day, December 16th at 2:30 p. m. The December PTA meeting will be Wednesday evening, December 17th at 3 p. m. in the school auditorium.

Roaring Twenties Party Given At Country Club

A cabaret atmosphere prevailed at the Country Club Saturday night, with festive decorations in keeping with the "Roaring Twenties" motif, excellent food, and a spritely floor show on tap for the large number of members and guests present.

Club hosts for the gala event were Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Mauney, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Padgett and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stallings.

Mrs. W. K. Mauney, Jr. and Dr. Padgett announced a most entertaining program. It was opened with songs and dances by a group of Chorus Ladies and Gentlemen dressed in the latest vogue in the "Roaring Twenties" accompanied by Mrs. Coman Falls on the piano, Mesdames, Harry Page and Lawrence Logan on ukeles. Following the humorous program, a number of popular songs of the Twenties were sung by the assemblage led by members of the Chorus.

In the contest for the best dressed couple were Mr. and Mrs. Simpson of Hickory, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Heavner, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Dean, Miss Ann Parish and Jack Wood of Charlotte. Mr. and Mrs. Heavner received the prize.

Dancing was enjoyed following the floor show.

A real Christmas turkey dinner was served, and a general good time was heartily enjoyed by the gayly dressed guests. Women in their evening dresses, with their head dress of aligrettes, street length dresses, with stockings rolled, showing their fancy garters, beaded chiffon party dresses and others too numerous to mention were set off by the gentlemen in their striped blazers, fancy knickers, straw hats, with striped bands, matching their ties, high collars, and bow ties, then the Collegiates in their sport suits with raccoon coats and college pennants, with their girls in their sports wear, all blended into a colorful assemblage.

Christmas decorations prevailed in the parlors. In the large dining room multi colored balloons and college pennants vied with each other, colored balloons and candles were decoratively used on the tables. Candles used around the room shed a soft light over all creating a soft glow for the mirthful event.

Mrs. J. O. Plonk, Jr. Honored With Lovely Tea Saturday

The holiday theme and traditional wedding colors of green and white were used at the country club Saturday afternoon at the large and handsomely appointed tea given by Mrs. J. O. Plonk and daughters. The social event was planned as a courtesy to Mrs. J. O. Plonk, Jr., a recent bride.

The Christmas decorations in green with colored balls, red berries and candles made an enticing picture at the entrance of the club.

Callers were given a warm welcome at the front entrance by Mrs. Fred Plonk and presented to the receiving line by Mrs. Hugh Ormand. The receiving line included Mrs. J. O. Plonk, Mrs. J. O. Plonk, Jr., her mother, Mrs. Hunter Neisler, and daughters of Mrs. Plonk's, Mrs. William Rodes Weaver, Mrs. William Henry McElwee and Mrs. Robert Edward Lewis, Jr. Mrs. Plonk, the honoree, was regal in her wedding gown of white satin. Her flowers were a formal nosegay. Mrs. Paul Hendricks, directed guests into the foyer, and Mrs. John McGill directed into the hall where Mrs. Rufus Plonk and Mrs. M. L. Plonk greeted and directed callers into the dining room.

Mrs. G. V. Patterson of Gastonia presided over the silver tea service at the refreshment table. The long table was overlaid with a handsome cutwork cloth in blocks of insertion and embroidery with a deep lace edge. In the center of the table was an oblong arrangement of white glads, pom pom chrysanthemums, snapdragons and daisy chrysanthemums. In the center of this was a wedding ring in white encircled with glistening band, and standing in this was a figurine of a bride and groom.

Silver platters of small party sandwiches, cheese straws, composites of nuts and individual cakes in green and white completed the appointments. On the end of the mantel was a cluster of silver candle holders in graduated heights entwined with southern smilax. On the opposite end was a white swan in a sea of white flowers. Silver candelabras holding white lighted tapers were on small tables in opposite corners of the room.

Mrs. Jay Patterson received, and Mrs. John B. Plonk, Mrs. Clarence Plonk, Jr., and Mrs. Wray Plonk assisted in serving. Mrs. M. L. Harmon and Miss Ava Ware were at the door leading into the parlor where good-byes were said to Mrs. Moffatt Ware.

Several hundred called between four and six o'clock, among them a number of out-of-town guests.

Dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Miller were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Miller of Beth-ware community and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Sullivan of Long Island, New York.
