GARDEN TIME ROBERT SCHMIDT N.C. STATE COLLEGE Raspberries and dewberries have just about finished bearing for this season in eastern and central North Carolina and now is the time to prune them. To understand why we prune them at this time we should know something about the growth and fruiting habits of these crops. Raspberries and dewberries bear most of their crop on new shoots that come out of canes of last season's wood. Each season after bearing a crop the last season canes will die and their place will be taken by new canes which come up from the roots of the plant. The old canes therefore should be removed as soon as the crop is harvested. This practice will give more room for the new canes to develop as well as to get rid of diseased plant materials.

State College Offering Radio-TV Course At Gaston Technical School

North Carolina State College is offering a course in radio-television technology for the year 1953-54, at the Gaston Technical Institute, Gastonia. E. W. Ruggles of State College, stated today that "our greatest shortage of qualified employees exists in our radio and television communication system and in our servicing, repair and distribution of receiving sets."

The addition to the curriculum is designed to give the student sufficient technical information to qualify for a first class radio-telephone operator's license. This course is sponsored by the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters. Registration for this class will be open for a few more days. The work will continue for six months and will be followed by another six months of radio-television communication. The requirement for admission to the radio-television technology course will be high school graduation. Applicants for the radio-television servicing and repair must have sufficient education to profit from the course and must possess an aptitude for this type of work. The school has been approved for training by the Veterans Administration and many of the discharged Korean veterans are taking advantage of the courses now offered at the Gaston Technical Institute.

Students desiring further information or application forms, should contact James I. Mason, director, Gaston Technical Institute, Box 975, Gastonia, N. C.
