"It's time to do something about excessive speed on our highways," said Mayor G. A. Bridges today, inaugurating the "Slow Down and Live" program in Kings Mountain.

Mayor Bridges signed a proclamation calling on Kings Mountain people to cut driving speed and save lives. With him at the time of the signing were Sgt. J. B. Kuykendall and Harry M. Matthews of the State Highway Patrol. The Highway Patrol is behind the "Slow Down and Live" campaign which has the direct support of Governor Umstead.

"With 1,118 killed on North Carolina streets and highways last year," said Mayor Bridges, "and with excessive speeding as the one single factor most often involved, then it's time we do something to curb excessive speed."

Governors of the 24 states have signed a joint proclamation pledging their state's cooperation on a single phase of traffic law enforcement—the violations associated with speed.

The campaign in this state is being carried on and is coordinated by the State Highway Patrol. Major C. A. Speed, director of the patrol's safety division, is the state coordinator. All members of the State Highway Patrol including the district sergeants and safety representatives are

Mayor Bridges added: "Your performance as a courteous, cautious driver will make enforcement action unnecessary. We want your journey to be a safe and happy experience. Hence we ask your cooperation in the highway safety watchwords, 'Slow Down and Live!'"
