GARDEN TIME ROBERT SCHMIDT N.C. STATE COLLEGE Now that the rains have come, many garden plants including dahlias and shrubs have broken out into rapid growth again. This is especially important for dahlias because they have not had much opportunity to make good bush growth up to the present time. That means that there will not be so many blooms developed before frost. This is the time to give them the last application of fertilizer for the season. A large handful of a good garden fertilizer such as a 6-8-6 or 5-10-5 around each plant should be sufficient. It should be applied about 12 inches away from the plant and scratched into the surface soil. From now until frost is the best time for the dahlias season. With plenty of moisture, fertility, and cool nights they will make rapid growth. This means that you will have to stake them and tie them up frequently so that storms will not break the plants down. How can we keep dahlia blooms from wilting after they are cut? In the first place, some varieties keep better than others. If you are interested in cut flowers, you should grow varieties that are good for that purpose. Many people advocate dipping the stem ends in hot water, or searing the stem ends with a match, but I have found that the best method is to cut the flowers early in the morning or late in the evening and immediately sink the stems in deep cold water. In an hour or two they may be transferred to a vase for arrangement. Add some "Bloom" or "Floral

In the event the distance exceeds 75 feet within my property, I agree to pay for such additional footage at the rate of $0.50 per foot when properly billed. Due to the different metering installations required in the commercial sections of town, the above meter locations may not hold true. These will be individually designated by the Resident Engineer or his representative. I also agree to allow the City or its representative to enter my premises to install this line and to release the City or its representative from any and all obligation to preserve or replace sod, shrubs, or trees removed or damaged in excavating for this gas service line.
