FOR BETTER CARPET AND RUG CARE — Just how long a good carpet or rug will wear and look its best depends for the most part upon care it is given. Research reports say:

Don't use cleaning fluid, soap, monia, washing soda, or other alkaline solutions on cotton carpets.

Don't use an abundance of water on nylon or saran carpet as these fibers are non-porous and water will reach backing.

Don't use an abundance of water, or water solution, or frieze or looped carpet; just brush lightly with damp cloth.

Don't use cleaning fluid on carpets with latex backings as it may soften the latex; nor nail polish remover on carpets containing acetate yarns as it will dissolve these yarns.

Use the same mild detergent record.

you use on fine wool, cotton, nylon, acetate, and rayon garments. Don't fail to dry backing, pad, or floor under a carpet if it gets wet. Use fan for circulation of air. Or lift rug off floor until all is dry, to prevent mildew and rot.

Don't stand heavy pieces of furniture on newly cleaned, damp carpets as these dents will be hard to remove. If the legs of furniture have metallic caps or casters, don't allow it to stand on damp rugs or carpeting, for rust spots are easily formed in this way.

Milk production in the United States totalled 124½ million pounds in 1955—the highest on record.
