ing business and they have commended it very highly. Mrs. D. J. Carter, The Journal - Patriot North Wilkesboro: "Mr. Hubbard and all the staff here at the Journal-Patriot join me in extending congratulations to you at this time of your opening the new home of The Herald."

Reed Sarratt, executive editor, Winston-Salem Journal and Twin City Sentinel, Winston-Salem: "Congratulations on your move to your new building."

Basil L. Whitener, Gastonia: I extend to you, and your staff, heartfelt congratulations upon the step forward which you are making in the history of your paper."

Miss Beatrice Cobb, publisher, Morganton News-Herald and secretary of North Carolina Press association: "... hearty congratulations on reaching one of your goals in successful management of your excellent newspaper. I rejoice with you and the community you serve on this meaningful occasion."

Tom L. Robinson, publisher, The Charlotte News: "We are disappointed to miss your open house celebration in connection with the new home of your fine newspaper. All of us here at the Charlotte News wish you continued success and happiness. We are very proud to be your neighbor and friend."

Editorial in the Cleveland Times, Shelby, E. D. Lewis, editor: "Congratulations are in order for our sister non-daily newspaper in Kings Mountain."

"The Kings Mountain Herald, one of North Carolina's most outstanding, prize-winning weeklies, has outgrown its functional 'metes and bounds' on Piedmont avenue and has built and occupied a brand-new plant building a short distance away."

"It is reassuring to witness the growth and prosperity of a community publication anywhere, for the road to success for a weekly is by no means broad and smooth."

"This is especially true in an area of daily competition. We congratulate in particular Martin Harmon, the lithe, energetic publisher of the Herald."

"It was Harmon's boundless energy, his myriad capabilities, his fore-sight, and—perhaps the most important of all—his willingness to gamble on the future, that lifted the Herald from position of mediocrity in Kings Mountain and made it the strong tion, $82,500 for capital outlay, and $247,500 for debt service on school bonds. Kings Mountain district schools will share in the school funds to the extent of 12.95 percent, City District Supt. B. N. Barnes said, with county schools to receive 64.27 percent, and Shelby district schools to receive 22.78 percent. The three districts share on the basis of the past school year's original enrollment. Kings Mountain, with 2215 pupils, found its share increasing over the previous year by two-tenths of one percent.

Max Hamrick, county accountant, told the Herald the county's bonded indebtedness at June 30 was $3,985,000 including $3,510,000 in school building bonds, and $475,000 in hospital building bonds. During the fiscal year just beginning, the county will retire $206,000 in bonds and pay $96,610 in interest. The total of bonded indebtedness is less than five percent of the assessed valuation of approximately $82,500,000.

General fund expenditures, agencies such as the sheriff's department, tax office, etc., is expected $224,500. Next in total appropriations is $61,500 for operation of the two county hospitals here and at Shelby, with $61,000 earmarked for this purpose. Operation of welfare services (listed separately in the budget estimate) will require an aggregate of $200,537.

Police Investigate York Road Mishap Mrs. E. L. Arrowood, of York road, sustained slight injuries Saturday around 3:40 p. m., when a 1949 Chevrolet in which she was a passenger collided with a 1953 Lincoln.

Listed as drivers were E. L. Arrowood, husband of Mrs. Arrowood, operating the Chevrolet; and Willie Lyons Negro, operating the Lincoln. The accident occurred under a traffic signal at the intersection of York road and Gold street. Property damages were estimated at $85.

stereotype 32-page press costs $125,000 with the price ranging upward to a million dollars depending on the page capacity of such presses. As population increases, business grows. As literacy improves and a yearning for knowledge is instilled into the upcoming generation by the schools and other educational forces, communication facilities are expanded.

"These five communication systems in Cleveland prove that our people have come a long way when we think back to Civil War days when 70 per cent of our population could neither read nor write."

The number of visitors to France from the United States increased 14 per cent in 1955 over the previous year's. Travel is one goal which Americans are attacking through U. S. Savings Bonds.
