Gary Decries Extremists

"There is one America, one God. Both command our faith," Kays Gary, Charlotte Observer columnist, said last Thursday in an address to the Kings Mountain Kiwanis club.

Mr. Gary, a Fallston native, had decry the nation's extremists, both super-patriots and ultra-liberals as hardly patriots at all and declared the United States operations "have weaknesses and waste because humans administer them."

"Do we correct the abuses or stop 'em?" he asked.

He cited Russia's quick conquest of Poland and contended that the Russians make a peace with the owners of the Skoda munitions works. He also charged that Cuba fell easily to Castro due to the government tyranny of Batista "with our and U. S. investors' approval."

"Those who would run the United Nations have Mr. K dancing with glee," he declared, adding, "none likes waste in foreign aid, but our missiles encircle the Soviet."

He failed to see, he added, how elimination of the income tax or impairment of Chief Justice Earl Warren would defeat Communism which he termed "the threat of our nation."

Mr. Gary spoke on a program arranged by Sherman Perry.

Fish Not Hungry But Weather Fine

Mayor Kelly Dixon, just returned from a week's trip in Florida, reports "weather fine, but fish not biting."

The Mayor visited the Tampa-Clearwater area, confined his fishing efforts to dockside. The weather was warm and pleasant," he added, "but the fish just wouldn't bite."

Crowded Now, High School To Need Eight More Classrooms Next Year

"We're badly crowded today," says B. N. Barnes, superintendent of schools, "and will be more crowded next year."

This is the basic theme of the Superintendent as he expounds on the need of the area for a new high school plant.

He cites chapter-and-verse from projections of school attendance in future years, as based on today's actual attendance.

With earliest possible use date of the proposed new high school plant the school year 1963-64, the high school can anticipate having an enrollment jump of 231 — from today's 817 to 1048 — or, in classrooms, virtually eight, for next year (1962-63) with only present facilities.

Present enrollment figures indicate another big jump for 1963-64 to a high school population of 1183, or a need for a minimum of 12 new high school classrooms, followed by a peak of 1243 students in 1964-65.

Mr. Barnes notes the figures will undoubtedly vary, with dropouts and transfers in and out of the district, as citizens move in and out of the school area.

school population, again on basis of today's enrollment, will drop slightly for three years to a base figure of 1135, then resume its upward trend.

Mr. Barnes lists these items in today's crowding:

- 1) Three high school classes are in temporary buildings.
 - 2) The band is housed in a garage.
 - 3) Two seventh grades are being bused to Park Grace school.
 - 4) Auditoriums at both West and East schools are being used for classrooms.
 - 5) Libraries are sharing space with cafeterias.
- "A new high school will not only provide the needed high school classrooms but will relieve the Central plant and others for more students," Mr. Barnes adds. He continues, "A new high school is best and most economical means of handling the district's present and future space needs. The present Central plant has insufficient acreage for an adequate high school and the building, constructed in 1933, was designed in greater part to accommodate elementary students, as this was the great need at that time."

The fiery wake of Titan I, fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Monday afternoon at 6:31 was witnessed by numerous citizens in this area.

W. T. Weir, of Weir's Coal, said two of his drivers, Tom and Grady Odum came back from deliveries reporting the fiery aerial flame. Tom Odum had been delivering in the Hilltop area and Grady Odum in the Craftsman Yards, Inc. area.

And Don W. Blanton, an Eastern Airlines employee, said "I had 200 calls reporting the site."

It was the last test-flight for Titan I, fired successfully for the 34th time in 47 launching attempts. The missile landed in the target area off Africa 5,000 miles distant.

Titan I will be replaced by Titan II, described as the nation's most powerful missile.

Organization Has Compiled Area Analysis

Glee A. Bridges, former mayor of Kings Mountain, was elected president of the Kings Mountain Chamber of Commerce as members met for the annual session Tuesday night at Kings Mountain Country Club.

Other officers elected include Fred Wright, Jr., first vice-president; B. F. Maner, second vice-president; and L. E. Hinnant, treasurer.

Three year directors are William Herndon and Charles Mauney.

Thomas Tate and James Amos were elected to serve terms as two-year directors and, Robert O. Southwell and B. S. Peeler, Jr., were elected as one-year directors.

The officer candidate slate, prepared by a nominating committee, was accepted by acclamation of members present.

Charles Blanton, retiring president of the organization, outlined a year of small successes for the chamber. He noted a big achievement of the organization was the publishing of an industrial analysis of Kings Mountain for distribution to persons inquiring about Kings Mountain and area surrounding.

The analysis report covers up-to-date information on county manufacturing, labor supply, transportation, taxation, utilities, housing, education, churches, and other assets of the area.

Mr. Blanton noted he was pleased with the spirit of the active members of the Chamber of Commerce but said it had been his experience to find a lack of enthusiasm and interest in the growth of the community by the public. He noted the Chamber of Commerce must stimulate interest in the town, not only in executives of prospective industries, but in the citizens of Kings Mountain.

Working together, thinking in terms of growth, and being progressive is the key to building Kings Mountain," he said.

Kings Mountain is failing to capitalize on the historical significance of its background, he said. "We are letting surrounding communities take the lead in publicizing the historical value of the Revolutionary War battle for which our town is named," he noted.

Mr. Blanton urged that something be done to start an annual observance of the Battle of Kings Mountain, date of which was October 7, 1780.

He noted the measure had been a big point on his "want list" for his year of service, and the observance had failed to materialize.

He noted, too, that the lighting campaign of the main business

1961 Tax Listing Officially Over

Annual tax listing officially ended Wednesday.

Max Hamrick, county tax supervisor, noted that the listing officials had enjoyed brick traffic all week and said an extension wasn't deemed necessary.

In Kings Mountain, Conrad Hughes, township listing official, and Gleen A. Bridges, city listing official, said that Monday was the peak listing day.

They were still recording properties for taxes Wednesday but the traffic wasn't heavy.

"We believe the large majority of property owners have listed," Mr. Hughes commented.

Mr. Hughes will be at City Hall for a week or ten days tabulating the listings, he said.

Mayor Hasn't Yet Decided On Senate Bid

Mayor Kelly Dixon, back in his office Wednesday after a trip to Florida, said he hasn't come to a decision as yet on seeking the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

"I've been out of touch for the past week," Mayor Dixon, the GOP Congressional standard-bearer in 1960, said Wednesday. He added he might be closer to a decision following Thursday night's Republican fund-raising dinner at Charlotte, where Rep. Charles A. Jonas, the state's lone GOP Congressman, will make the featured address.

In addition, the Republicans gathered at Hotel Charlotte will hear via closed-circuit television brief addresses by former President Dwight Eisenhower, National Chairman William Miller, New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller and Richard E. Nixon now seeking the California gubernatorial seat.

Normally, the GOP nominates its candidates for state offices at the state convention, to convene in Durham this year on March 3.

The officer candidate slate, prepared by a nominating committee, was accepted by acclamation of members present.

Gifts For Bible Teaching $135

The Ministerial Association's Bible-in-the-Schools committee is $135 nearer meeting its expanded budget commitment for the current school year, Treasurer Paul Ausley reported Wednesday.

The money came from an unnamed business firm $50, from Second Baptist church, $35, and from David's Baptist church, $25.

Currently needed to even the budget for the current school year is $928, Dr. Ausley added.

The budget got out of kilter on two counts: 1) the general state-wide teacher pay increase; and 2) the fact the Bible teacher upgraded her certificate to "A."

"The Bible committee deeply appreciates these contributions and years for additional ones," Dr. Ausley commented.

He noted that several civic clubs have been asked for aid and added, "I hope their consideration will be favorable."

Other committee members are Dr. W. L. Pressly and Rev. J. W. Phillips.

High School Student Campaigning At Full Peak; Election Friday

School "politicizing" is in full swing at Kings Mountain high school.

Campaign speeches will begin on Thursday during a student assembly and Election Day is Friday when students will select a president, vice-president, and secretary of the Student Participation Organization.

The student "politicizing" includes all the "fun" of regular campaigning as each candidate picks a manager and other workers to aid him in his bid for office via distribution of campaign cards, placards and persuading favorable votes from other students.

Student campaign managers were buying colorful cardboard for vote-seeking. Some workers wear colorful hats, others have campaign buttons bearing the inscription, "Vote for..."

Two More Groups For School Bonds

C of C Members, GOP Precinct Groups Act

Two more organizations have endorsed the forthcoming bond issue election for building a high school plant.

Kings Mountain Chamber of Commerce, in annual meeting Tuesday night, unanimously endorsed the proposal.

East and West Kings Mountain Republican precinct organizations, noting they had no intention of making the bond election a partisan matter, endorsed the bond issue.

B. F. Maner, West Kings Mountain GOP chairman, and Ed H. Smith, East Kings Mountain GOP chairman, issuing the following statement:

"The East and West Kings Mountain Republican Precincts are writing to inform you that provided the amount of the bonded indebtedness to be floated in the coming School Bond election is sound in terms of cost projected in relation to actual plant size and function that we will support the passage of the bond issue.

"This statement is by no means to be construed as an injection of partisan politics into a wholly non-partisan project. As Republican citizens vitally interested in the growth of their community we are only concerned that the monies will be spent in such a way as to provide maximum facilities for the children at a sound minimum cost. In other words we oppose 'frills' which tend to be both expensive and unnecessary. A case in point is the extreme amount of added cost in the Garinger School in Charlotte, N. C.

"Our prime concern is that a reasonable bonded indebtedness be effected and that our School Board be assisted in every possible way to do an increasingly effective job in leading the community."

Bounds Listed For Bond Vote

Polling places for the March 10 school bond election for one-out-of-district citizens will be same as for the consolidation election of May 14, 1960, while in-city precinct bounds conform to the City of Kings Mountain precinct bounds.

An addendum to the official bond election notice first published last week specifies bounds for the eight designated polling places.

A new registration is required by state statute with the registration books opening for the first of three consecutive Saturdays on February 10 at each of the eight voting precincts.

It was also announced that Mrs. W. W. McCarter, of Grover, will serve as registrar at the Grover precinct. She replaces Mrs. J. B. Ellis, who found the February 17 Grover water bond election, for which Mrs. Ellis is registrar, in conflict.

MOOSE DINNER

Chicken dinner will be served free to members of Kings Mountain Moose Lodge and their wives Sunday from 5 to 8 p. m., according to announcement by Charles (Whitey) Bowen, chairman of the committee in charge.

Grover Bond Books To Close

Saturday is the final day for Grover citizens to register to vote in the February 17 $148,000 water bond election, Town Clerk W. W. McCarter reminded Wednesday.

No new registration is required. However, many new citizens of Grover are registering at the two polling places — Grover Fire Station and City Hall.

"We think there's a lot of interest in this election and we hope it goes the right way," Mr. McCarter added.

"By the right way" Mr. McCarter means the favoring by citizens of issuance of $148,000 in water bonds to supply a new water system for Grover, a project started over a year ago when blueprints and plans were drawn up by the town board.

February 10th is Challenge Day. Grover citizens will vote on the proposal at the polls from 6:30 a. m. until 6:30 p. m. Saturday, February 17th.

Tax Payments Reported Brisk

The city tax office has had a busy week as taxpayers have been paying 1961 tax bills in advance of the penalty date.

Thursday is the final day for paying 1961 tax bills at par, with a penalty of one per cent applying on Friday.

Additional one percent penalty applies March 2.

Joe McDaniel, Jr., acting tax collector, said collections through Tuesday totaled $99,658, or 60.25 percent of the $165,315 levy, which includes poll taxes.

Mr. McDaniel added that collections Wednesday morning had been heavy, guessing payments totaled $7,000 to $8,000.

He anticipates heavy collections Thursday, based on prior year's experience.
