Help Of Alanon Program Set

Three women from Charlotte will give a talk on alcoholism at Trinity Episcopal church, Phifer Road, Kings Mountain, on Sunday night at 7:30 p.m. The title of their talk will be "The Help of Al-anon".

Al-anon is a group which works with Alcoholics Anonymous and consists of members of the families of alcoholics. At regular meetings the members of Al-anon discuss the problems that exist in their family as result of having an alcoholic member; they also work with the factors in their own lives and marriages that have given rise to an alcoholic problem in the family. Al-anon is not as well-known or as common as Alcoholics Anonymous.

This program for Sunday night represents a change in the original program which was to be a taped-talk by the author of THE LATE LIZ. This tape is available through Alcoholics Anonymous and may be borrowed upon request.

The talk to be given Sunday night is the third in a series on "Drinking: its problems and solutions". The final talk in the series will be given on Sunday, October 27th by the Rev. Joseph L. Kellerman, head of the Charlotte Council on Alcoholism.

These talks are open to the public. At the end of each talk, there is discussion, and coffee is served.

Falcon Patrol Cops Honors

The Falcon Patrol of Troop 91 copped the prize during a string burning contest held by 60 Boy Scouts Tuesday night.

In a string burning contest a fire 12 inches high has to be fanned into a 24 inch flame and burn a string which is held tightly by a competing patrol, Scouts pointed out.

The Copperhead Patrol placed second in the event and the Wolverine Patrol placed third. Sammy Proctor is patrol leader of the Falcons and Dan Dyke is assistant. Other members of the Falcons present were Mike Ellison, Chuck Soarks, David Leftwich, Steve Powell and John Harris.

Scouts also worked on merit badges or advancement in rank, Scoutmaster Otis Falls, Jr. reported.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout troops number 157 and 3 of the ARP church held its meeting Friday afternoon. After their business they had refreshments then hiked out to Flat Rock. The girls hunted for artichokes to go in a dish garden. They all had a very good time.
