The problem occurs in timing. Under the law, a candidate must file for nomination by the party in which he is registered. The deadline for filing for county of-fice is April 17—eight days prior to the opening of the registration books for the May primaries and eight days too late for Mr. Glass to change his registration to Republican.

Informed of the attorney-gen-eral's ruling, Mr. Glass commented, "I may offer as a Democrat."

He added, "I have received considerable encouragement to seek the office of county commissioner, not only from Republicans, but from many Democrats. Before I sought to file Monday, many Democrats urged me to offer as a Democrat."
