Richard Culyer Is Young Man Of The Year

Jaycees Give Teacher, Scouter Service Award

Richard Culyer, 25-year-old eighth grade teacher and scout leader, was named Kings Mountain's Young-Man-of-the-Year for 1964 at the regular meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night.

Announcement of the winner of the club's 11th annual distinguished service award was made by Otis Falls, Jr., DSA winner for 1961.

The presentation of the service award to the Bettware teacher was the highlight of "Bosses Night" and followed an address by Rev. Jack Cooke, chaplain of Carolina Freight Carriers Corporation of Cherryville.

Elaborating on the theme, "The Nobility Of Being Ordinary", Mr. Cooke challenged Jaycees and guests: "Let us not forget who we are, what we are and enjoy every day of life." He answered his own question, "What has happened to our sense of values?" by asserting that leadership is over-emphasized. "We forget the mechanic, the salesman, the farmer or other ordinary people," he noted, "in our desire to drive to be something."

"For every leader there are many followers and the world depends on those with ordinary talents," he added. "You don't have to be a big shot to get the most out of life," he continued, closing his remarks with a quotation by the late President Lincoln, "God must have loved little people. He made so many of them."

Exhibiting much surprise at the announcement of the DSA winner, Mr. Culyer said, "I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

Selected by a secret committee of Kings Mountain men above 36-years-of-age, name of the winner of the award was a close-guarded secret, known only to DSA chairman Jacob Dixon and the five-member selection committee. Other former DSA winners present were B. S. Peeler, Jr., 1951; Charles Dixon, 1957; Otis Falls, Jr., 1961; and Bob Southwell, 1963.

In presenting the handsome engraved plaque to Culyer, Mr. Falls said of Culyer: "Here is a man who can take a boy into the woods, get him interested in books as well as nature and the scouting program. He tutors, free of charge, at home, after school and never turns down a suggestion..." Both Mr. Falls and Mr. Culyer are active in the scouting program of St. Matthew's Lutheran church.

A native of Albemarle, Mr. Culyer joined the Kings Mountain schools faculty five years ago. He has taught both sixth and eighth grades. His wife, the former Annette Vaughn, is a sixth grade teacher at West school. He holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from Appalachian State Teacher's college where he majored in history and mathematics.

Businessmen Give Opinions On Prospects

Kings Mountain's economic prospects for 1965 appear good, a spot survey of area industrialists showed Wednesday.

Whether 1965 will be a good business year in Kings Mountain brought virtually similar opinions from yarn manufacturers as well as businessmen.

W. K. Mauney, Sr. of Mauney Mills is optimistic as well as George Houser of Sadie Mills, Ben Grimes of Phenix Plant No. 1 of Burlington Industries and Tom Tate, secretary-treasurer of Home Savings & Loan Association, among other leaders.

Mr. Houser said, "It looks better than a year ago, in fact business has been brisk and we are hopeful it will continue and 1965 will be better than 1964."

Most leaders shared the same opinion that recent legislation giving the textile industry one-price cotton is the difference.

Before Congress passed the one-price cotton legislation, it was possible for foreign textile industries to buy American cotton at a lower price than could business interests. The expansion in textile industries in the Carolinas is due to their ability to buy cotton at an equitable price, Mr. Houser believes. Mr. Houser noted that this legislation opened up buying that people had been holding back and he hopes the two-year program will be "a permanent thing." The program, as set up, will expire August 1, 1966.

Bob F. Mauney, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said: "1965 is a bright new year and I am confident it will be a good one for mercantile, manufacturing and home construction in Kings Mountain. Kings Mountain business citizens have enjoyed a profitable year. We have seen the evidence of progress and are pleased that K Mills has joined our industrial family. I am optimistic that 1965 will be the best year in the history of Cleveland County."

He was named Citizen of the Year in Shelby in 1951 and Shelby Man of the Year in 1960. Moderator of Kings Mountain Baptist Association, he was featured by "Charity and Children", Baptist Publication, in a feature story entitled, "Horace Easom, Twice Retired, Still Working Full Schedule." For 20 years he was director of education and music at Shelby's First Baptist church.

W. S. Fulton, Jr., manager of Fulton's Department Store, will be installed as president of the civic club succeeding R. S. Lennon.
