Major League Baseball In Home Stretch

The major league basebail seasons are now in their home stretch, so it's about time to go down the list of teams, since there remains only about 30 games to be played. played.

In the American League, it looks as though the Min-nesota Twins might bring home their first pennant since the team was organized back in 1961. The New York Yankees have won for the past five years but (through Tuesday's standings) are $17\frac{1}{2}$ games out of first place, sixth in the league standings.

The Twins right now have both the hitting and pitching power and since Harmon Killebrew and Camilo Pas-cual are back in action, Minnesota adds to its strength.

Chicago, however, could offer a threat as the White Sox are in second place right now, $6\frac{1}{2}$ games behind the Twins. The Sox won the pennant in 1959.

The Cleveland Indians are in third place, 9½ games out, and will probably finish around that spot. Detroit comes next, 10 games behind. Both those teams will be heard from for the next few years, as their power gets stronger every season

Baltimore has dropped into fifth place, 10½ games out, then comes New York, followed by Los Angeles, Washington, Boston and Kansas City. The Red Sox are 34 games behind, the Athletics 35, so those two teams will probably have a real good race for the ninth place finish.

National League Race Much Closer

The race in the National League is always close and this year will be no exception. Think back: Last season about this time the Philadelphia Phils led the league by about seven games but lost the pennant on the last day of the season, only to see the St. Louis Cardinals come from behind and then become the World Champions by defeating the Yankees in the Series.

Los Angeles now holds a slim, 11/2 game lead over the second place San Francisco Giants, and only one percentage point behind, in third place, are the Cincinnati Reds. The Milwaukee Braves, who have been tough until recently, have dropped into fourth place, $2\frac{1}{2}$ games out.

Pittsburgh still has a chance as the Pirates are only 41/2 games out and Philadelphia is only 61/2 out. But those teams have four other clubs to pull over, and although they're not behind many games, those top clubs are going to have to play under .500 ball before either of those two teams can advance.

In sixth place, almost out of the running, is St. Louis, followed by Chicago, Houston, and New York. The Mets just lost a manager, Casey Stengel, who spent 25 years the field. as a professional manager. Many of those years were with 1-2-6: The staff of each flag shown on the field diagram must be the Yankees, where he won more pennants and World Series than any other Head in the business. But you never can tell about this game of baseball, especially when the September month rolls around. Most every year, in one league or the other, many times both, a team will put on that last burst of speed and come-frombehind to win the pennant.

September, too, is a month in which players get tense and sometimes blow up, or do strange things. That has been shown here lately, in August, when Giant pitcher Juan Marichal hit Dodger catcher John Roseboro in the head with a bat when Roseboro seemed to have thrown a ball close to his ear when returning a throw to the pitcher while Marichal was batting. That started a two-team rhubarb and cost Marichal a
