Clapp Says Lime Now

Most people that have grown plants, whether in the field or around the home, know that our soils, when first cultivated, do not contain sufficient lime and fertilizer for the satisfactory growth of plants, states County Extension Chairman H. R. Clapp. Even more important is the fact that our soils need to be limed periodically and fertilized every year for satisfactory results. Plants remove nutrient elements from the soil and leaching losses from rains takes its toll. Consequently, we find ourselves in a position of really not knowing whether or not our soils need lime or plant nutrients or the amounts needed for the best growth of crops or plants. Mr. Clapp states that our best solution to such uncertainty is to have our soils tested. A soil test is a process whereby chemical procedures are used to determine the lime level of a soil, and the level of calcium, phosphorus, potash, and organic matter. From this information and knowledge of what plants require for their best growth, a lime and fertilizer program is made. Results of tests, and lime and fertilizer suggestions are reported for each soil sample. Now is an excellent time to send samples to your soil testing laboratory according to Mr. Clapp. They can analyze them promptly and also if lime is needed it can be applied this fall. Mr. Clapp states that he has soil
