

ALL NEW ICE CAPADES OF '66

Ice Capades Sets Opening January 20th

CHARLOTTE—ICE CAPADES OF '66—a glittering and glamorous spectacle that puts the emphasis on show business itself, is coming to the Charlotte Coliseum in January 1966.

The all-new, million dollar fairytale of beauty will be staged Thursday, January 20, through Tuesday, January 25, 1966. Five night and four matinee performances will be presented.

It's a new idea in ice shows, with the world's top skaters presenting an ice version of "Alice in Wonderland," skating to the fabled music of "Old Vienna," then going halfway around the world to the lush beauty of the "South Seas."

The second half of the show is devoted to a salute to the entertainment world with all the stars joining in the tribute to stage scene, television, the circus, and opera and ballet.

Stars of the glittering spectacle are the Adagio skaters; Romayne and Steele, the brother and sister team—Otto and Maria Jelinek, the Japanese Sashi Kuchiki, twice world's champion—Aja Zanova, free style champion Timmy Litz, and charming Lynn Finnegan.

The comedians, LaBrecque and Bussey, are back so are Dave Pitts and his chimpanzee Spanky, and the pantomist Joe Jackson, Jr.

New to the show this year is the Swedish Star Ann-Margaret Frei, winner of the Swiss Gold Medal. A new star, Janet Rynn, tears with Peter Voss in a dazzling exhibition of pair skating.

A quarter of a million dollars was spent on the costumes. Thousands more were spent on props and novel effects.

Shows will be presented at 8 p.m., Thursday, Friday, Monday and Tuesday; 9 p.m. Saturday, Matinees at 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday and 1:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are now on sale at the Coliseum and are priced at $2.00, $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50, with children admitted for half-price on Thursday, Monday and Tuesday nights.

Outdoor Drama Gets New Name

The outdoor drama planned for Winston-Salem this summer has received a name. TILL THE DAY BREAK is the title chosen for the historical drama based on the early Moravian settlers of Old Salem, North Carolina.

North Carolina's new outdoor drama, written by Richard Stockton of New York City, is featured event of Winston-Salem's Bicentennial Year and will open on Tuesday, July 5, 1966. The drama will play nightly, Tuesday through Saturday, for eight weeks and will close on Saturday, August 27, 1966. A matinee performance will be offered each Sunday afternoon during the season. The night performances will play outdoors in the beautiful new amphitheatre in the May Dell at Salem College. Sunday matinees and the rain performances will play in the air-conditioned Hanes Auditorium immediately adjacent to the amphitheatre.

The title, TILL THE DAY BREAK, can be found in the Old Testament, Song of Solomon, chapter 4; verse 6—that verse beginning with the familiar phrase, "Till the day break and the shadows flee away..."

For more information on the drama, Old Salem Restoration, and other Winston-Salem Bicentennial Year events, please write the drama office, P.O. Box 10327, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Religious camp meetings were introduced to England by an American evangelist, Lorenzo Dow.

Speed Heads Highway Patrol

Col. Charles A. Speed, for many years a driving force in accident prevention, recently assumed command of the 709-man State Highway Patrol. Formerly director of highway safety for the patrol, the new commander has more than a few life-saving tips for Tar Heel motorists, now that cold weather is upon us.

"In many sections of the state, he said, rain and fog make the same sort of problems as snow and ice for winter drivers.

"Rain in particular is not recognized for the hazard it is, particularly when visibility stays relatively good. Except in cities and towns where traffic crawls in the rain, few drivers slow down very much. This is all well and good until an emergency arises and the unwary driver finds himself going too fast to stop or otherwise avoid a wreck.

"Driving in rain poses visibility problems apart from those caused by the rain itself. Windshield fogging is one of the worst. Even defrosters on many cars do not do an adequate job," he said.

He recommended a revival of the old rubber-bladed accessory fan, mounted on the dash and directed to the windshield to help keep it clear. And a window kept nearly open to insure ventilation will also help keep windows all around from fogging.

Use of low beam headlights, even in daytime, is still another aid to good visibility.

"Fog is dangerous because of its sudden appearance," Speed said.

"There is probably more danger from patches of fog than from a continuous stretch. That's because drivers seem to think every patch will be a light one which they will break out of before the rear of the car is into it. This is seldom the case.

"Fog is hardest to spot at night. But if you see lights getting dim ahead of you on a cold, damp night you can expect fog. And right then is the time to get under control.

"Don't forget to make the best of your reduced visibility, not

Special Census Began Tuesday

Headquarters office for the special census of Cleveland County was opened Tuesday at U. S. Naval Training Facility at Shelby, N. C. Robert M. Davis of the Census Regional Office in Charlotte will supervise the population count.

"The census will ask these questions: name of each person, age, sex, relationship to head of household, and color or race. An additional question, "Does this house have a basement?" will be asked only by slowing down, but stick to low beam headlights. Country beams cause glare to be reflected back intensely. Take advantage of everything you can see around you to keep your position on the road. Signs, particularly the newer illuminated ones, are helpful. And if you're on a road with good lane lines and edge striping, you are in luck," Speed said.

"Safe driving in rain and fog is difficult, but not impossible."

at the request of Civil Defense. A similar census was taken in each of four North Carolina counties in December 1965.

Local people are needed to work as census enumerators visiting all households in the county beginning about January 24. A diligent enumerator can earn from $12 to $15 a day.

Candidates must be U. S. citizens, 18 or older, with a high school education or equivalent; and those who live outside town must have a car and a driver's license. In general, each enumerator will work in the area where he or she lives, Mr. Davis says. Work will be full time for a week or longer, including Saturdays and some evenings.

Applicants will be given a written test of ability to understand written instructions—and to read maps. Those who are appointed will receive a period of training, for which they will be paid. All census workers must take an oath not to reveal information about individuals or families.

Most enumerators in a census are housewives. "They make excellent enumerators," Mr. Davis says, "and most of them welcome the chance to earn some extra money."

Mr. Davis asks that anyone interested in census work come to the special census office between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. any day beginning January 11, and come prepared to fill out an application form and take the Census test.

Creams, made with a lanolin base, are used to minimize wrinkles and skin dryness around the eyes.

SALVATION ARMY

A new corps of Salvation Army volunteers has been organized in the county under direction of Captain Mae Harris. The Salvation Army is located on downtown streets each Friday, a member of the Corps announced this week.

ON F TROOP

Hal England, Kings Mountain native, will appear on the television program, "F Troop", beginning January 18th. Mr. England is currently in Hollywood.

Farmers In Lead in Production Of Livestock

RALEIGH—North Carolina farmers are getting the greater benefits from higher pork prices by taking an undisputed lead in swine production in the southeastern United States, according to livestock specialist and reports from the Cooperative Crop Reporting Service.

William W. Wilder, livestock marketing specialist with the N. C. Department of Agriculture, said that Tar Heel farmers are ahead of other states in two categories—states with over 100,000 breeding swine and states with over 1,000,000 swine population—as compared with 1964.

"N. C. farmers show intentions of increasing the number of animals held for breeding by 17 percent over December 1, 1964. This is the largest increase in the nation of states with over 100,000 breeding swine," Wilder reported.

"Indications show that six percent more sows are expected to farrow during the December 1965-May 1966 period than for the same period last year, but is 300,000 less than this period from December 1963-May 1964.

"In North Carolina all hogs and pigs are up four percent to 1,456,000 head which is the largest increase in swine population in the U. S. of states with over 1,000,000 head. All other states except Kentucky in this size production showed decreases in total hogs when compared to 1964.
