GARDEN TIME

A snapbean grower in Cleveland County has been having trouble controlling rust on his plants. He has been using sulphur dust but thinks he can get better results by applying a fungicide as a spray.

I talked with Prof. J. C. Wells of the Department of Plant Pathology and he recommends Manzate as a spray instead of sulphur. Manzate is a good fungicide and is safer than sulphur. Sulphur may cause leaf damage, if applied under high temperature conditions, which may reduce yields.

While a dusting is very satisfactory for controlling pests on many plants, I have always felt spraying, if properly done, is more effective because a spray adheres longer to plant parts and is not as easily washed off by rains.

"What can I use to control insects and diseases attacking strawberry plants in my home garden?"

Here again you have a choice of using either a dust or a spray. I would suggest Captan for diseases and Malathion for insect control.

If you are not equipped to spray your plants, I would suggest 7.5 per cent Captan as a dust, and 4 per cent or 5 per cent Malathion.

If you are equipped to spray, you can use Captan, 50 per cent wettable powder, at the rate of 2 lbs. per 100 gallons of water, or two tablespoons per gallon; and Malathion 57 per cent emulsifiable concentrate, at the rate of 1 1-2 pints per 100 gallons of water or two teaspoons per gallon.

water or two teaspoons per gallon.

At least three days should elapse between the last application of Malathion and the picking of the ripe fruit.

To control aphids, lace bugs, spider mites (red spiders) etc. on azaleas, spirea, pyracantha and other similar shrubs, use Malathion, spray or dust, as suggested for strawberries.

This is a good time to treat your lawn for grubs, ants, and Japanese beetles (larva or worm stage.) Heptachlor, chlordane, and dieltrin are all effective controls for these pests. Use according to directions on the container.

If your lawn needs to be fed with a complete fertilizer, such as an 8-8-8, you can purchase a formulation containing one of the above named insecticides, thus accomplishing two purposes when applying.

Watch out for Japanese beetles in the adult (beetle) stage and knock them out as soon as they appear. Sevin is good; and safe.

The Medal of Honor is usually presented by the President, acting behalf of Congress. It is sometimes referred to as the Congressional Medal and was created over 100 years ago to honor Union soldiers in the Civil War. It has been awarded 2,194 times.
