ELECTION SIDELIGHTS

As usual, registrars found many would-be voters unregistered, among George Wilson, brother of Candidate Carl Wilcox, and some, as he was in Japan when the new registration was ordered two springs ago.

Tom Tate's little girl, Grace, was doing her bit by canvassing the neighborhood. Among her calls was to Mrs. Thomas Richie, who explained she hadn't lived in North Carolina long enough to be eligible to vote. Then Mrs. Richie remarked that her father is a sheriff. The little girl looked up in awe and asked, "You mean your Daddy is Haywood Allen?"

Captain Meek Ormand voted as is his long custom. He was 97 in March. M. L. Harmon, 91, was another nonagenarian casting a ballot.

The brilliant-red "I Have Voted" stickers were the brainchild of Mrs. Elva Gheen, editor of the Cleveland Times, and compliments of the Times.

A few minor discrepancies turned up in the West Kings Mountain box when tally sheets were compared. Biggest was five votes, and there were three two-vote imbalances, highly unusual in this precinct where accuracy is the watchword. Contributing factor: the teen-agers dance band long before the counting ended; the band was LOUD. The tally sheet used was tagged in order that recounts might be made should five or two votes effect results. No race was that close.

Three Schools To Be Operated During Summer

Regular, fee-basis summer school will open June 13. The two summer terms under the federal anti-poverty program will begin a week later on June 20.

The "Head-Start" program for pre-schoolers will be held at West school, with Howard Bryant as principal. The program provides for instruction of up to 165 students, 90 percent of whom must qualify on basis of the family's economic need — a table based on gross income and number of dependents.

Teachers for the "Head-Start" program are now being employed and Superintendent B. N. Barnes envisions a faculty of nine or ten persons, depending on enrollment.

The Title I special reading program will be conducted at three schools.
Instruction for pupils Grades 3-6 living north of King street will be offered at North school. Instruction for pupils Grades 3-6 living south of King street will be offered at Compact school. Instruction for Grades 7-12 will be offered at Kings Mountain high school. In the reading program, economic status of pupils was a determining factor in designation of particular schools. Enrollment is not limited, however, on basis of economic status of the pupils. Thus, any pupil from Davidson, Central, Compact high school and elementary schools, and from North school may enroll.

Bus transportation will be provided, both for the "Head Start" and special reading programs.
D. B. Blalock, Jr., is principal of the reading school operation.

White apparently was plugging the pump cord into an outlet when it blew up and flames ignited gasoline and grease inside the pit.

KMHS Graduates

Charles Wright will pronounce the benediction. The band will play "Coronation" for the recessional by the seniors.
Commencement exercises began on Sunday evening with the baccalaureate sermon in Central Auditorium.
Rev. Howard Jordan, pastor of Central Methodist church and newly-elected president of the Kings Mountain Ministerial Association, challenged the graduates to "serve God by serving others," noting that a life of service is the only source of true joy and true happiness; that a life of service makes the world a better and more beautiful place in which to live; and a life of service is the mark of a Christian.

"Your life is a treasure for investment," said Mr. Jordan. "In a world today when we think so much in terms of what we can get, the greatest contribution to life is what we can give to humanity."
"The secret to Jesus' successful life was that He went about doing good, and it was Jesus who said that the fundamental law of life is service."
