

Vacation Bound? Driving Tips Are Offered

RALEIGH — What can you do about the driver who tailgates you—drives so close behind that you are uncomfortable because you know you're the one he'll hit if he can't stop in time?

The best thing to do is let him pass you. If possible, it might even be a good idea to pull clear over and let him by, or even stop to get out of the situation. Then forget it, and go on.

Eating can be dangerous on a long trip, too. So, it's a good idea to watch what you eat. Heavy, big meals on the road can make you tired and sluggish. Keep it light, with such things as a cheeseburger and coffee.

Make sure you have a good set of sun-glasses, for daytime only. You'll need them. But proving grounds experience has shown an extra advantage in wearing sun-glasses. Your night vision is better if you've worn sun-glasses during the day—but a lot worse if you wear them at night.

What you can't see at night CAN hurt you. During the day, as much as 10,000 candlepower of sunlight is available. At night headlights are about all you have to depend on, except for street lights and incidental sources.

Be sure your headlights are operating properly before you start, and keep them clean while on the road. That goes for tail-lights and turn signals.

These suggestions can make your trips safer and more enjoyable. The test drivers have found that they work.

No, what are you going to do, just as a review, before taking off on that long vacation trip?

Here's the Answer

4-H'er Greene To Rockingham

Michael Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Greene, is representing Cleveland County at the annual 4-H Forestry Camp at Camp Millstone near Rockingham this week. He is a rising senior at Kings Mountain high school and president of Dixon Community 4-H Club.

One-hundred boys — each a 4-H Club forestry leader in his county — will converge on Camp Millstone in Richmond County for the annual 4-H Forestry Awards Camp during the week of June 13.

Southern Bell will again sponsor the camp in cooperation with the Extension Forestry Department and 4-H Club Department of the North Carolina State College Extension Service. The purpose of the camp program is to further — develop, among the young people of our state, forestry know-how and leadership in the conservation and development of one of our priceless natural resources — our forest.

Special features of the camp program are training in forestry skills such as planting and caring for trees, identifying trees, proper cutting of forest for timber purposes, proper use and care of forestry equipment, and other forestry skills.

In many respects the camp resembles a "lumber jack, on-the-job training camp." It's a "working" camp — where the boys learn by doing. There are a few lectures, but most of the learning takes place in outdoors as experts skillfully guide the boys in actual forestry skills.

Citizenship and character development are stressed throughout the week's program.

But it is not "all work and no play." Any time you get a hundred healthy, energetic boys together it is necessary to program an outlet for the tremendous energy such a group generates. This is channeled into such recreational activities as baseball, swimming, and other sports.

The 4-H Forestry Camp is held annually at Camp Millstone in Richmond County as a part of this overall 4-H Forestry Program. To date, over 800 4-H Club boys, representing each of the one-hundred counties in North Carolina and nearly one-hundred county agricultural agents, have attended the camp. The camp has received recognition as one of the best planned and conducted activities of this type in the country.

Remember the first time dad took you fishing...

What a big day in your life that was. A couple of men going off on a new adventure (well, you felt as big as him). Come to think of it, he really pulled in that big one, didn't he? But that wasn't all he gave you credit for. Or taught you. Dad really had quite an influence on your life, didn't he? On Father's Day, let him know just how much he's meant to you.

People Who Know Her Say Doris Osborne is qualified to serve as Treasurer of Cleveland County

The following excerpts from recommendations which were written over a period of years of her employment, attest to her qualifications for the responsible post of Treasurer:

"Mrs. Osborne, for a number of years was in charge of the Accounting and Billing Department of our Processing Division of Cleveland Mills. I had the opportunity over a period . . . of years to know that her clerical and book work was always performed in the most accurate and dependable manner. She has had a lot of experience . . . and has a natural ability in this line of work." — Jean W. Schenck.

"If there is a single person in the organization I would entrust my editing duties to . . . I would rather have Mrs. Osborne than anyone else. In addition to her professional qualifications, Mrs. Osborne is valuable in public relations. She is dignified, charming and gracious in manner, above reproach in character and conduct." — (David E. Gillespie, Editor).

"Mrs. Osborne . . . is a mature and capable newspaperwoman and possesses attributes and qualifications of superior calibre . . . (she) ably handled several diverse duties in the newsroom of The Shelby Daily Star when I was executive editor. . . ." — Pete Ivey, Director, UNC News Bureau.

"This is to commend the service of Mrs. Osborne who was a member of The Shelby Daily Star . . . during the period of 1952-57 when I was editor . . . Mrs. Osborne's title . . . was proofreader. But the term is deceptive . . . she was given the authority to challenge the reporting of any staffer and to suggest changes. I recommend her without pertains." — (William L. Green, press attache, U. S. Embassy.)

"Mrs. Osborne worked . . . under my direction for several years at the Shelby Daily Star and is a woman of fine character and professional capability worthy of any trust she will undertake." — (Holt McPherson.)

"I have known Mrs. Osborne personally for many years . . . (she) has an executive type of ability . . . personality and qualifications to manage many types of jobs . . ." — (John F. Schenck III, president Cleveland Mills.)

IF EXPERIENCE counts where good government is concerned, Doris is qualified to do the job better.
