This is because the maximum amount of yearly earnings that counts for social security has been increased to $7,800. It was

The value of the protection earned through social security is greater than ever before for two reasons. First, the amount of monthly cash social security benefits being paid was increased by at least 13 percent. Secondly, because of the increase in the amount of yearly earnings that counts for social security.

You And Social Security

Q. Can a woman draw her disability social security for herself and her children even though her husband has a full-time job?

A. Yes. A disabled woman worker can draw disability payments on her own social security record and her dependent children can also be paid on her record. Her husband may be fully employed at a high income. Your need is not a consideration in social security payments.

Q. I am over 65 and have Doctor Bill insurance. I owe several hundred dollars in doctor bills. I can-not afford to pay them. What can

A. Get itemized bills from the doctors, and file your claim with Medicare. If you need assistance with the forms, go to your Social Security Office. After Medicare sends you the money, you can use it toward paying your doctor bills.

Q. My wife died last year and checks because of social security until much later in the year, if their rate of pay is the same as it was in 1967. This is true even though major improvements were made in the social security law recently.

Q. Will the increase in the social security earnings base from $6600 to $7800 mean an increase in future social security benefits?

A. The more you pay into the program, the more you get out paid by Medicare. Of course if
