Fashions '68

Fashions in '68 can be demurely little-girlish, romantically Victorian, or elegantly tailored. It's a year of diversity, and Maid of Cotton Susan Holder's designer wardrobe reflects the many looks in a wide range of cottons.

Two of the cottons in her wardrobe are pictured here. Jacket dresses designed with an eye to both fashion and travel appear in diagonal-striped cottons, twill weaves and smooth gabardines. Dresses underneath the short-cropped jackets are high-belted, close-fitting and stylish enough to stand alone.

Day dresses in checks, plaids, and floral-printed piques include lace-trimmed body - skimming styles, vestee tops with full dirndl skirts and youthful empire shapings.

One of the most striking after-five designs is a short-sleeved coat-dress of cotton brocade richly woven in shades of lime, orange, purple, magenta and white. Another unusual cotton creation is a fitted velveteen coat in hot pink with woven stripes. It has double-breasted styling and features a half-belt in the back.

"Tasty Treats" New Recipe Folder Free

Vacation time is here again—a time when many mothers prefer to be outside in the cool shade with less emphasis placed in the kitchen.

Summer is the time for cool, cool meals that require very little preparation—a time when many families retreat to the patio or even to surrounding camp grounds.

With summer fun in mind—the North Carolina Egg Marketing Association has designed a recipe folder that offers new ideas in menu planning for the hot days ahead.

The folder—"Tasty Treats"—includes recipes for Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner—and with the children constantly in and out of the house for snacks—mom will find recipes for their enjoyment listed under the Snacks and Party category. The folder also includes a section for the outdoor crowd that enjoys cooking on the patio or camping out.

If you'd like a "Tasty Treats" folder for your own enjoyment, they are available upon request by writing to: Tasty Treats, P. O. Box 6533, Raleigh, N. C. 27608.

Mrs. Limbaugh Returns From Great Smoky Trip

Mrs. Margaret Limbaugh of Kings Mountain recently visited Forbidden Caverns, near the Great Smoky Mountains, to view the many natural formations in the cave.

Forbidden Caverns, a short drive from Gatlinburg and Sevierville, Tenn., was opened this season after two years of excavating and construction work.

The attraction features some of the most spectacular formations in America, all illuminated by an extensive theatrical lighting system. Stereophonic sound presentations in the grottoes re-create the days when the pre-Cherokee, Woodland Indians inhabited the cave and surrounding valley. Indian legend refers to the caverns as, "The place that is forbidden . . . hollow mountain of two streams. . ."

Some of the main points of interest are: "Eternal Falls," an almost 100 foot water-fall down a natural chimney formation; "The Sacred Stream," a crystal-clear stream that winds through the caverns; "The Grotto of the Dead," with reflection pools and stereo sound; "Council Chamber of the Elders," where Indian artifacts have been found; "Grotto of the Evil Spirits," where huge stalagmites stand in a semi-circle around a small lake; and "The Wall of Onyx," a gigantic formation of solid cave onyx.

Dinner was served to 23 guests, including members of the two families, the wedding party, and out-of-town guests.

Tables were overlaid with white cloths and centered with arrangements of pink daisies and white snapdragons. The bride-to-be's place was marked by a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Miss Lynn wore a pink linen dress with white accessories. The bride-elect and bridegroom-to-be took the occasion to present their gifts to their wedding attendants.

Party Honors Bride-Elect Diane Keeter

Miss Diane Keeter, whose wedding to Billy Padgett took place Sunday in First Baptist church, was honored last Thursday at a drop-in bridal shower given by Miss Ann Owens at her home.

Miss Owens was assisted by her sisters, Misses Susan, Kathryn and Margaret Owens, in receiving and entertaining. The 15 guests showered the bride-to-be with miscellaneous household gifts and the hostess presented her wedding gift—a pressure cooker.

A wooden motif was carried out in decorations and refreshments. The bride's table, overlaid with a green linen cloth, was centered by a summer basket of flowers flanked by handmade wooden candlesticks. Party pick-ups were served from wooden trays. The gift table was decorated with an umbrella filled with gift packages.

Out-of-town guests were Miss Chris Ford of Burlington, the bride-elect's college roommate, and Mrs. Janice Sigmon of Crouse.

The bride-to-be wore a mint green crepe dress and was presented a shoulder corsage of yellow roses from the hostess.
