

New Personal Loan Plan Introduced By First Union National Bank

A new personal loan plan, one of the first of its kind in the nation, will be introduced September 15 by First Union National Bank L. E. Hinnant, executive officer in charge of the bank's Kings Mountain office announced today.

Called First Checkloan, this unique program will include three major services: cash reserve, instant cash, and a First Union National Bank Check Guarantee Card combined with the present First Bank Card. These added services will make First Union National the only bank in North Carolina to offer these particular services in a single program.

To qualify for one, or a combination of services in First Checkloan, a personal line of credit from $500 to $5,000 must be approved and established for each applicant. Neither a checking account, savings account, nor a charge card with First Union National is necessary to establish this personal credit line.

Use of the cash reserve, however, is dependent on a personal checking account with FUNB, as the reserve simply backs up an existing checking account and permits a customer to write a check for more money than he has in his checking account.

To cover the check, which will become an automatic revolving credit loan, the bank will transfer funds in multiples of $100 from the customer's established cash reserve into his personal checking account.

A part of the program that works without writing checks is instant cash. After an instant cash line has been approved, cash, on the spot up to the maximum established credit limit, is available at any FUNB office.

To be combined with First Bank Card, the First Check Guarantee Card will offer merchants the bank's guarantee for payment of a customer's check not exceeding $100. This part of the new loan program will establish a dual line of credit—one with cash reserve, and one for First Bank Card.

Application forms for First Checkloan are available at all First Union National offices. September 16.
