

Sgt. Boyd Parrish With Acid Test I

FT. RICHARDSON, ALASKA (AHTNC) — Army Staff Sergeant Boyd Parrish, son of William F. Parrish, 102 Alabama Ave., Bessemer City, N. C., is participating in Exercise ACID TEST I — UNCH CARD V, as a mess steward in the 69th General Support Group.

Major units of the U. S. Army, Alaska, and Alaskan Air Command Forces, plus Air National Guard units from several other states, are engaged in the mock battle operation which began Jan. 29 and will continue through Feb. 13.

The largest training exercise to be held in Alaska in two years is being conducted in the Army's maneuver area near Ft. Wainwright. It is designed to test the effectiveness of combat troops operating in the arctic environment.

Under near-combat conditions, pitting "friendly forces" against "aggressors," the ground soldiers are demonstrating their fighting efficiency in a region where winter temperatures sometimes reach more than 60 degrees below zero.

COMPLETES TRAINING — Marine Lance Corporal Jerry H. Clark, son of Mrs. Gladys B. Clark of Route 2, Bessemer City, N. C., completed the Combined Action Group School at Danang, Vietnam. The course is designed to train Marines and Navy hospital corpsmen assigned with the Third Marine Amphibious Force for duty with Combined Action Platoons (CAPs) throughout South Vietnam's northernmost tactical zone.

F1 hybrid cabbage "Stonehead" is the exciting new extra early, small-sized extremely hard heading cabbage. The most desirable small size is especially wanted for home gardens but also of family ice box size from the markets. Along with small core and solid head, Stonehead permits closer spacing, more heads to the row or per acre, good flavor and quality in the quantity yields. Of rich blue-green outer leaves, this is an extremely hardy, attractive cabbage with real appeal.

F1 cabbage "Harvester Queen" has large globe heads and medium earliness with especially uniform size, maturity, shape and dark blue-green outer leaves. It holds well at maturity before bursting. It has good flavor and quality, very solid wits compact interior and medium core. Of course varying with location, soil and planting time heads weigh to over 5 pounds, 6 to 8 inches diameter and depth. With home garden quality and appearance, it is believed 100% yellows resistant. While it may be thought large for home gardens, it is particularly useful for processing, ideal for kraut.

F1 hybrid cauliflower "Snow King" was tested as an extremely early Snowball type with fair sized head of good quality. Snow King is reported from 10 to over 24 days earlier than other Snowballs, shorter plants and with rich creamy white curds. Excellent uniformity of heads for harvesting at one time, at different trials holding 5 1/2 to 9 inch flat heads quite well without loosening. Very short stem and reported by one judge is very heat tolerant. Its great advantage is extreme earliness.

F1 hybrid summer bush squash "St. Pat Scallop" brings back to popularity an improved bell-shaped, greenish white version of the Patty Pan squash. St. Pat is very early, continuous bearing, uniform, prolific, of excellent quality. The young fruit, and all summer squash should be used only when very young and tender, have the most desirable shining pale green color. Aging, when color turns to white, it is too late for good use but it holds tenderness somewhat longer than others. Its thickened semi-globe, bell shape with smooth scallop margins provides more tender flesh, less waste. The compact bush needs less garden space and provides more fruit over a long season, heavier yields if kept picked.
