

8 STALL HORSE BARN Plan No. 6010

FREE PLANS AVAILABLE — Local county extension offices have free plans on two different horse barns. Plan No. 6010, shown above, calls for an eight-stall barn. Plan No. 6011, which is similar is for a 17-stall barn. These plans are also available from the Department of Biological and Agricultural Engineering at N. C. State University, Raleigh.

2-Horse Barn Plans Offered Area Farmers

Tar Heels who are planning a recreational area or riding academy may find plans for a horse barn, which are available from North Carolina State University, helpful.

This barn is 24 feet wide, 50 feet long, contains eight stalls, a feed room, and a tack room. The building length is variable in 10-foot units.

"The barn is planned for economy and long life," said Extension Agricultural Engineer Bynum Driggers, who developed the plan. "It is of pole—or post-type construction and easy to build," Driggers added.

Floors in the feed and tack rooms are built of concrete, slop-

The Veterans Corner

EDITOR'S NOTE: Below are authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to some of the many current questions from former servicemen and their families. Further information on veterans benefits may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—I was wounded in Vietnam and evacuated to a military hospital in the United States. I will be separated from service at this hospital. Will I receive any counseling or information about veteran benefits before separation?

A—Yes. A Veterans Administration representative will visit you at the hospital to advise you of your veteran benefits. Further he will help you file for these benefits. After separation, your records will be forwarded to the VA regional office having control over your records. That office will follow up to insure any applications you filed at the military hospital are processed in a timely manner.
