Telephone Talk

By R. B. MOORE

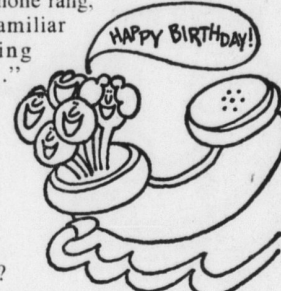

THE MAGIC BRIDGE... It's only eight inches long—but it spans continents, oceans, even outer space, at speeds that make distance disappear. Your telephone is your personal pathway to almost anyone, anywhere. It keeps you near your friends, even when they're half a world away.

And it's one bridge that's practically never closed for repairs.

AN EMERGENCY OPERATION, which had knocked her out of a planned vacation in Hawaii, was really giving the lady a case of the birthday blues. She comforted herself somewhat with the thought that at least she could be near one of her daughters, in whose home she was convalescing.

Suddenly the telephone rang, and a chorus of familiar voices began to sing "Happy Birthday." The callers were her other grown children, in five different locations.

Would a family conference call be good medicine for somebody you know?

SCHOOL

As we have talked about in the last few months school is now open, but our children are still being faced with the tremendous hazard of crossing our streets in the paths of oncoming vehicles.

I am sure each one of you is aware of the terrific accidents that have taken place within our communities. The bereavement by the family of the child, plus the family of the one operating the vehicle, is also shared by the readers of our papers.

PLEASE DRIVE CAREFULLY and let's protect our small children!
