WEEKLY Health Tip
By WILSON GRIFFIN
Portable hair dryers have replaced the old-fashioned 115-volt portable radio as an electro-vibrator by falling into bathrooms, having batteries, cannot electrocute. However, women are able to do the laundry, work in the kitchen, even take a bath while using the hood hair dryers. If a "ground" such as faucets, or water in sink or tub is touched, a fatal surge of electrical current can result.
