RALEIGH — The North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission has approved the 1970-71 hunting and trapping regulations.

The statewide rabbit season was shortened by two weeks as a result of widespread suggestions at the public hearings held in May. At the hearings, many hunters requested that the rabbit season be cut short because pregnant rabbits were occasionally being taken late in the

The new season for rabbits will be November 14 to

"This is a good example of how hunters can help the Wildlife Commission and also get regulations passed that they feel are warranted," said Frank Barick, Chief of the Division of Game. "The widespread reports from the hunters that rabbits with young were occasionally being killed aids our biologists in recommending season dates. As a result of the hunters' concern, we have changed the sea-

Comments from hunters at the public hearings favoring a shorter rabbit season ran roughly 7-1 in support of a shorter season.

Regulations concerning bear also generated much heat at the public hearings, with hunters expressing both opinions for longer and shorter seasons.

The bear is in danger in much of the state, and the Commission voted for the split shorter seasons of October 12 to November 21 and December 25 to January 2 with some counties being closed entirely. In the east, Dare County was added to six other counties closed to bear hunting because of reduced populations. They are Chowan, Gates, Hertford, Pasquotank, Perquimans and Tyrrell.

In other action, the Commission approved the proposal to allow hunting when snow covers the ground for all species except the wild turkey. The program for spring gobbler hunts-in effect for the second year-was also upheld, and even expanded slightly as three counties, Vance, Franklin, and Warren, were deleted from the win-

The Commission declined a proposal to shorten the quail season by a week in order to have several small game seasons opening on the same Saturday before Thanksgiving. Therefore, the quail season will be from November 14 to February 27.

The Commission will hear a report on milfoil from the Division of Inland Fisheries at the next monthly meeting. Harry Cornell, Chief of the Division of Inland Fisheries, indicated that treatment to rid the area of milfoil was difficult, very expensive, and also ineffective for more than two to three years.

Commissioner Orville Woodhouse questioned the wisdom of even attempting to fight milfoil, particularly in Currituck Sound. "We've had more ducks and better fishing since the weed took over," said Woodhouse.
