Whitener Rally In Lenoir

LENOIR — Basil L. Whitener, former Member of Congress from the Tenth Congressional District and now a practicing attorney in Gastonia, appeared Saturday evening at a Rally and Barbecue sponsored by the Democratic Party of Caldwell County, at Oak Hill School. Speaking to a large group gathered from Caldwell and surrounding counties, Whitener expressed a favorable outlook toward the 1970 General Election. Noting that his opponent, incumbent Representative James Broyhill, had expressed a policy of "supporting the President 100 per cent" earlier in the campaign, Whitener said, "Wherever we go in the District, we are told that the people want more than 'metooism' from their Congressman. A legislative program that is bad with a Democratic President is not better when the same program is presented by a Republican President. I have never been a 'rubber stamp' Congressman and will not be in the future!"

The former Congressman also stated that the vast spending power of the opposition could be overcome only by hard work on the part of supporters. He noted that the people of the District were aware of excessive campaign spending by his opponent in 1968 and said that "the people will not permit the buying of a seat in Congress."

The "LIFE" Vocal Group, composed of high school students from Gastonia, N. C., presented a program of folk singing and campaign music. They have volunteered their services for the Whitener campaign and have appeared with the candidate in the past.

Prior to the Caldwell County event, Whitener appeared at the First Anniversary Celebration of the N. C. Truck Drivers' Association at the Lake Norman Music Hall.

Tech Now Test Center

Cleveland County Technical Institute has been authorized by the N. C. State Board of Education to administer G.E.D. examinations and is now the only official testing center in Cleveland County, according to Harry Matthews, Director of Adult Basic Education at Cleveland Tech.

Primary use of the G.E.D. or General Education Development test is to appraise the educational development of adults who have not completed their formal high school education. Upon satisfactory completion of the tests, adults may earn a high school equivalency certificate, and in turn, qualify for admission to college or, in general, for admission to more advanced educational opportunities.

The G.E.D. Testing Center of the American Council on Education in Washington provides all testing materials, restrictions and guidelines for administering the G.E.D. tests.

"This total program, so far as Cleveland Tech is concerned, is worked through and under the direction of the North Carolina Department of Community Colleges", stated Matthews, who has been appointed chief examiner by Cleveland Tech President James Petty. The responsibility of chief examiner is to operate the testing center in accordance with policies and procedures established by the N. C. Department of Education.

G.E.O. Tests, a battery of five comprehensive exams in the areas of english composition, social studies, natural sciences, literature, and mathematics are administered by the Rev. Fred McGee of Double Shoals every third weekend of each month on Friday afternoon and Saturday morning at Cleveland Tech.

Applications for taking this exam may be secured from the superintendents of the three school systems in the county or from Cleveland Technical Institute.

A fee of $3.00 has been set by the North Carolina Department of Community Colleges for taking the full battery of tests. If one part is failed, and it is necessary to be retested for that particular battery, a fee of $1.00 will be charged.
