April Is Poultry Products Month; Egg Is Help In Ailing Spring Food Budget

The age old question will probably never be solved as to whether the hen or the egg came first, but that will not keep us from observing April as Poultry Products Month. The proclamation as read in the Governor's office reminds us that North Carolina ranks third in the nation in egg and turkey production and fourth in commercial broiler production. Spring is an "egg-celent" time of year to "egg-spress" appreciation to the poultry industry which provides us outstanding foods.
It has been said that our modern custom of decorating and giving eggs at Easter is a symbol of the Resurrection since early people received them as a symbol of life. They believed that the egg represented the earth, the white was the water, the yolk was the fire, and the air under the shell was the atmosphere.
You may not agree with the age old symbolism, but you will agree that eggs are a tremendous help to an ailing food budget. Eggs don't taste like steak, nor do they cost like steak. Smart shoppers know that eggs provide high quality protein, plus important vitamins and minerals. One medium egg contains approximately 77 calories, which is also an important factor to all calorie watchers.
Are you at a loss to know what to serve family and friends? If you have a plentiful supply of eggs in your refrigerator at all times, a little practice and skill can have you ready for emergencies at all times. Check your favorite cookbook for specific recipes. Do remember that baked, poached, or scrambled eggs, plain and puffy omelets, souffles, fondues, creamed eggs and countless other entrees, seasoned and combined to please the appetite, will make you an "egg-sperit". By all means treat children to an egg decorating contest for an Easter activity.
Turkeys are a big part of the N. C. poultry industry. No longer are limited to a big bird just for Thanksgiving or Christmas time. Think as a reminder for your menu planning, anytime is turkey time. Our forefathers would find it hard to believe the large array of turkey products available today. Take your choice of large or small turkeys; turkey breasts, rolls, roasts, parts, or fully cooked or smoked. In your favorite grocery store, you will find nutritious and tempting turkey to fit your needs and your pocketbook.

You need never hesitate to serve broilers frequently for they are pleasing to the appetite, are well liked, and blend well with other foods into so many different dishes. Many exciting recipes call for boned chicken breasts. The price of having the breasts boned at market may seem prohibitive, but that doesn't mean you can't enjoy them. Boned chicken is far easier than you would imagine. Boned chicken stored in quantity in your freezer is great for convenient jiffy cookery. So roll "them" bones!
For ease in boning chicken breasts buy whole breasts preferably. Use a sharp knife with a 6-inch blade, and don't mind using your fingers when the knife seems hard to manage.
1. Place breast, skin side down, on cutting board. With knife, cut just through white cartilage at neck end of keel bone (dark bone at center of breast). Bend back and press flat with hands to expose keel bone.
2. Loosen keel bone by running the tip of the index finger around both sides; remove in one or two pieces.
3. Working with one side of the breast, insert the tip of the knife under the long rib bone. Work the knife underneath the bone and cut it free from the meat. Lifting the bone away from the breast, cut the meat from the rib cage, cutting around the outer edge of the breast up to the shoulder joint and then through the joint. (Continued on Page Two)
