

ASU Students In Local Posts

BOONE — Two Appalachian State University students from the Kings Mountain area are among 360 ASU seniors who have been given student teaching assignments in high schools throughout the state.

The seniors live in communities near their schools, and their professional training includes participating in civic as well as in school activities.

By the end of Appalachian's current spring quarter each student will have gradually assumed a full teaching load. They will return to the campus May 30 for graduation ceremonies.

The Kings Mountain students are as follows:
Hilda Lee Lowery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hill Lowery of Route 2, Kings Mountain, a 1967 graduate of Kings Mountain high school. She is assigned to Mrs. Rebecca Little at Flint Grove Elementary school in Gastonia.

James E. White, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. White of Shelby Road, Kings Mountain, a 1961 graduate of Kings Mountain high school. He is assigned to Mr. Allen at Central Junior High School in Kings Mountain.

William Wright Wins Promotion

U. S. ARMY, GERMANY (AHT-NC) — William I. Wright, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Wright, Route 3, Box 413, Kings Mountain, N. C., recently was promoted to Army Specialist Five in Germany, while assigned as a mechanic in Headquarters Company, 3d Battalion, 35th Armor, 4th Armored Division.

The specialist is a 1968 graduate of Kings Mountain high school.

His wife, Teresa, is with him in Germany.

Teszler Library Dedication Held

Sandor Teszler of Spartanburg, S. C., founder of Duplex Shannon of Kings Mountain and a former Kings Mountain citizen, was honored in special ceremonies Saturday at Wofford college in Spartanburg, S. C.

The Sandor Teszler Library was formally dedicated in his honor at 2:30 p.m. ceremonies.

Mr. Teszler is now associated with Olympian Mills. While in Kings Mountain he received a merit award from the City of Kings Mountain "in recognition of outstanding contributions to the growth of the city."

In commenting on Mr. Teszler's contribution to Wofford college, President Paul Hardin, III said:

Sandor Teszler was born on June 25, 1903, in Budapest, Hungary. At an early age he exhibited an insatiable urge for learning, especially in the fields of literature and music.

Mr. Teszler was graduated by the city (Budapest) school system at the age of 18, ranking among the first ten on the national level. His matriculation thesis in the field of literature was deemed of such excellence that it was reprinted in the national archives. He then entered the University of Chemnitz (Germany) where he studied Textile Engineering. Upon completion of the prescribed curriculum, he joined the mercantile firm established by his brother in Zagreb, Yugoslavia. Largely because of his perceptiveness and initiative the original merchandising organization was rapidly transformed into a thriving hosiery manufacturing industry. Although the initial activities began under very modest circumstances, by 1928 the organization became of major industrial significance, and by 1941 it expanded into a vertical textile industry encompassing fiber manufacturing, spinning, dyeing, weaving, knitting, and hosiery plants, as well as ladies' and men's underwear and outerwear manufacturing.

After World War II the industrial was partly nationalized and partly returned to Budapest by the Russian Armed Forces. However, Mr. Teszler was invited to join a select group of industrialists responsible for rebuilding the postwar Hungarian economy.

All during this period, Mr. Teszler quietly labored to secure an opportunity for his children to grow up in a free society. In February of 1948 he succeeded in leaving Hungary and emigrated to the United States, where he again resumed his business activities and became an outstanding industrialist.

In all of these busy years Mr. Teszler always found time to pursue his deep love for literature and music. He always looked for converts to the Muse among the younger people and unselfishly devoted his time to further their interest and guide their education.

His constant example of integrity, industry, and deep concern for human values made him an outstanding and well loved leader in all endeavors and spurred all those associated with him to strive for excellence in their professional and private lives.
