in London and then a nine-day tour of key German cities before setting down to academic pursuits in Vienna, where classes are held at the Institute of European Studies.

In the classes attention will be focused on the culture and language of Austria and Germany. The students will engage in a comprehensive study of European art history and architecture, including visits to major architectural monuments and art museums in and around Vienna.

"Vienna, which is the easternmost of the great cities of free Europe, continues to enrich the West out of the storehouse of central European culture," Dr. Bacon said, and added, "as the seat of the Holy Roman Empire and Hapsburg monarchy, it was for centuries the political, intellectual, and artistic capital of a vast community of peoples."

At the close of the academic sessions in Vienna, the students will have opportunities for independent travel. The group returns to this country on December 13.

ist Convention, the Owensbys spent one year in language school in Costa Rica, where they were charter members of a new church.

They were assigned as field evangelists in Venezuela, with their territory to be the area of Portuguesa, Lara, and adjoining states, and place of residence to be Guarema. The work consisted of preaching, teaching, coordinating the work of the national Baptists, building up churches and their programs, and aiding in the construction of several buildings.

Since being in Kings Mountain, the Owensbys have been following a rigorous schedule. Already they have visited in three states as they are used in mission efforts, revival, and other means of Foreign Mission promotion. There are two girls in the Owensby household. Ronetta, age 6, is beginning school this year, and Jenny, age 4, is a member of the four-year class in the First Baptist church kindergarten.

Both Rev. and Mrs. Owensby are North Carolina natives, Ronell being from Hendersonville, and Mrs. Owensby, the former Ann Pack coming from Mill Springs. Before going to the mission field, they were in pastorates at Cherokee, North Carolina, Blackstone, Virginia, Drakes Branch, Virginia, and Danville, Virginia.

According to the whole family, they are enjoying the time they are in the states. The Owensbys will present a program Sunday evening at First Baptist church, Kings Mountain, at 7:30 p.m. During this time, customs of the people will be discussed, slides will be shown and their work in Venezuela described in detail.

Teacher Pay Same Schedule

District 11 school superintendents from a five-county area agreed Wednesday at a luncheon here to pay teachers on last year's schedule. Supt. Donald Jones said yesterday afternoon. Supt. Jones said Governor Bob Scott is to make the official ruling on whether teachers will be given the five percent raise now or after November 12th when the wage freeze expires. The governor was urged in a telegram from the N. C. Association of Educators to order that all teachers be given their salary increases.

Dr. Craig Phillips of the state board of education advised area superintendents by telephone that the five percent hike not be paid except to teachers who were actually on the job prior to the August 14 wage price freeze. The choice of paying the increase was left to the discretion of the local superintendents.

Supt. Jones noted that Gaston County had already been using its new pay schedule but will make readjustments in salaries paid to teachers next pay period. District 11 superintendents also voted to hold all their meetings at Royal Villa here. Superintendents attending were from Cleveland, Gaston, McDowell, Polk, Lincoln and Rutherford County schools and Shelby, Lincoln, Kings Mountain and Tryon city schools.

KM Woman Robbed Friday

A Kings Mountain woman, Mrs. Joe Ann (Boots) Walker McDaniel, bookkeeper for a Gastonia wholesale store, was robbed of $9,000 in a daylight highjacking about 6 p.m. Friday in Gastonia.

Mrs. McDaniel was not hurt by the three gunmen who escaped in a pickup truck and then switched to a second getaway vehicle, police said. An employee of Quinn Sales, Inc., Mrs. McDaniel was enroute to Citizens National Bank branch in West Gastonia to make a night deposit of the day's receipts. She said the robbery occurred when the trio backed a pickup truck into her 1971 auto while she was parked at the intersection of Fifth avenue and Myrtle School road. She said two men got out of their vehicle and walked to the rear of the truck to survey the damage. She said she got out of the car, locked the door with the money bag inside and met the men at the front of her car. She said one of the men offered her a registration card and when she attempted to reach for it, he grabbed her around the head and put both hands over her mouth. The second man wrestled with her for the car keys and took them away. She said he threw the keys to a third man who opened the passenger side of her car and took the money bag containing $9,000 in cash and checks.
