Tar Heel Spotlight

Art has a special way of revealing history — and during North Carolina Heritage Week (April 24-30) the State Art Museum is telling "The North Carolina Story" through paintings and crafts.

Special tours of the Art Museum begin with the portrait of Sir Walter Raleigh, founder of the Lost Colony on Roanoke Island, and progress through the years to include the works of modern Tar Heel artists like Francis Speight and Henry Pearson.

Heritage Week is sponsored by the cultural arts division of the Department of Public Instruction, and it offers students a concentrated look at North Carolina's cultural development through projects involving dance, music, art work, recipes, drama, and historical displays.

Thousands of school children visiting the Art Museum will view vivid paintings and other objects that tell the story of how North Carolina began and moved forward to today.

Among famous people depicted in the works of art are Flora MacDonald, the Scottish heroine; George III at the Battle of Lexington; and William Pitt, who was friendly to the colonial cause. Bringing art into the realm of the three dimensional, visitors will also see a replica of the famous Canova statue of George Washington. (The original is in the capitol rotunda.)

Lighter moments of everyday life in North Carolina's past are represented by such paintings as "Amateur Circus" which captures a nostalgic view of children staging their own circus in the days when the absence of television, rapid transportation, and the like, required more exercise of the imagination.

Another painting entitled "Kitchen Ball at White Sulphur Springs" also reflects a way of life that is foreign to ours and gone forever. In it, slaves are enjoying themselves in the manner of their masters.

In addition to the works of art, other objects on display also help to tell North Carolina's story of cultural development. Among these are the products of native craftsmen, such as pottery from Jugtown and other household furnishings.

"The North Carolina Story," a pictorial history, is being featured at the State Art Museum during Heritage Week, but for those who cannot be in Raleigh this week, the tour can also be taken later if arrangements are made in advance.

about NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Q. What are the 3 most important rules for profitable newspaper advertising?

- A. 1. Your advertising message should be newsy, friendly, informative, easy to read. Give facts and news about your merchandise and service.
2. Advertise regularly. Make your advertising do what successful salesmen do—call on customers and prospects consistently.
3. Insist on audited circulation reports that give you the FACTS about the audience that your sales messages will have when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. Is there a measure for the value of newspaper circulation to an advertiser such as the standards a merchant uses in buying merchandise—for example, like STERLING or silver?

A. Yes—in the well known circulation standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

Q. What is the A.B.C.?

A. The A.B.C. is a cooperative, non-profit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914. Brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

Q. What does A.B.C. do for me?

A. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of the circulation records of each publisher member. The results of each audit are published in an easy-to-read A.B.C. report for your use and protection when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. What are the FACTS in A.B.C. reports?

A. A.B.C. reports tell you how much circulation, where it goes, how obtained and other FACTS that help you buy advertising as you would make any sound business investment—on the basis of known values and audited information.

Q. Are all publications eligible for A.B.C. membership?

A. No. Only those with paid circulation. This is important to advertisers because it is evidence that the paper is wanted and read.

Q. Is this newspaper a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations?

A. Yes. We are proud of our circulation. We want you to know the FACTS about the audience your selling messages will have when they appear in these pages. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.
