This Is The Law

By ROBERT E. LEE (Sponsored by The Lawyers of North Carolina) CONSTRUCTIVE TRUSTS

Jones takes out an insurance policy for $10,000 on his own life, payable on death to his daughter. He dies shortly thereafter from a heart attack.

Smith can prove that $150 of the premiums were wrongfully paid with funds that Jones was holding in trust for Smith, and that the remaining $50 in premiums were paid by Jones with his own money.

of the Smith

most entitled of the

to en-

force a "constructive trust" upon a proportionate part of the proceeds in such proportion as the amount of his funds so used have to the total amount of the premiums paid—which, in this case, was three-fourths.

Smith is entitled at his option to an "equitable lien" of $150 upon the proceeds of the policy. It is, of course, more advantageous for Smith to assert a "constructive trust."

A minority group of states, in a situation such as this, will limit Smith to an "equitable lien" for the amount of his money which was wrongfully used in paying the premiums. No North Carolina cases have been found holding either way.

Adams owns a home. He takes out a fire insurance policy, on his home payable to himself. The premiums for the year cost $200. During the year, the house was completely destroyed by fire.

Goldfish can prove that all of the $200 in premiums were wrongfully paid from funds that Adams was holding in trust for him. How much, if any, of the $30,000 to be paid by the insurance company can Goldfish get?

In most states Goldfish would be able to recover only $200. He is entitled to only an "equitable lien" upon the proceeds for the amount of the premiums paid with his money, since they are in no true sense the product solely of his money.

A fire insurance policy, unlike a life insurance policy, is a contract of indemnity against loss.

Jimmy Mauney On Study-Tour

Jimmy Mauney, of Kings Mountain, a rising junior at Pfeiffer college, will fly out of New York City on May 15 for a three week Pfeiffer Economics field studies program in western Europe.

Also traveling with the tour from Kings Mountain is W. Kemp Mauney, III, a student at N. C. State University.

Jimmy Mauney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Mauney, 614 Piedmont Ave., is an economics major and a graduate of Kings Mountain high school.

Twenty-eight Pfeiffer students, who will make up the study tour group, began their academic preparation for this trip in early April.

They will meet with top economic, banking, trade, industrial and political leaders in the Netherlands, Belgium, Great Britain, France, Switzerland and West Germany.

The study tour is under the direction of Professor Bruce George, head of the Pfeiffer department of economics, who spent many months working with financial trade and industrial organizations in Europe in making preparations for the tour. He gave the following details on the tour.

"It is difficult for many students who have not grown up associated with foreign travel or international economics to fully appreciate the complexities of international trade as well as comparative economics systems in a classroom setting.

"Our goal in this study tour is to show the relationship between theory and current economic and trade realities. We expect to come to have a better understanding and current monetary and international trade outlook, especially as it relates to the strength of the American dollar and balance of trade problems.

"We also will study carefully the trade trend in the European Common Market and political implications. Students, who desire, through written reports and other activities may receive up to six semester hour academic credits for their studies."

Pressley Wins At Hickory

HICKORY. — Bob Pressley shook off his jinx at Hickory Speedway Saturday night by chasing down Ned Setzer on the second lap and converting it into his first Sportsman victory at the track since last November.

The Asheville Chevelle driver was five seconds ahead of Morgan Shepherd at the finished, Bosco Lowe was third.

Rookie Ronnie Austin of Hickory was injured when he crashed broadside into the fourth turn wall. He was taken to a nearby hospital for observation and treatment of possible broken bones. The impact was so great that the gas tank and parts of the car's body were thrown clear of the smoking wreckage.

While Pressley was collecting $500 for the 50-lap main event, Setzer found his black cloud still overhead. The Claremont driver has won the pole on four occasions this season but has led only one lap. He spun on the backstretch after a brush with Shepherd and finished in 10th place.

Fans were on their feet later in the race when Setzer and shepherd brushed a second time. Shepherd claimed it was an attempt to crash his car.

In an action-filled Tabby feature, Ronald Fox toiled his six cylinder Chevy past pole-setter John Settlemire and his V-8 Chevy II to notch his third win of the season. The race was a rerun of the contest of last Saturday when Fox was leading and Settlemire was on his bumper. Fox was spun in that race and Settlemire went on to win the top money and a $50 fine and probation for rough driving.

This time the half-pint driver from Taylorsville was first to the checkered flag, a whisker out front.

Harry Gant nursing an ailing engine, was fourth in the Sportsman contest and Benny Kerley was fifth. Larry Starnes, Roy Chatham and Roger Starnes were third through fifth in the Hobby feature as six-cylinder cars dominated the action.

Eddie Lutz, celebrated an early high school graduation by winning his second rookie race. He has the distinction of winning every race he has driven in.

The year's annual Powder Puff Derby, an event for women, was won by Adelyn Setzer of Hickory.

This next Saturday the track has scheduled a 99-lap Sportsman race with the action beginning 8 p. m. An aerial act by the Great Boros will be an added attraction.

Single men accounted for 43 per cent of the annual increase in the labor force for the year ending March 1971. Cutbacks in the military draft and a steady flow of returning veterans helped boost the number of single men in the civilian population.

County Supports Bowles, Wallace

Cleveland County still liked Alabama Governor George Wallace in Saturday's Democratic primary, as it did when he was the American party candidate for president in the 1968 general election.

Wallace defeated former North Carolina governor Terry Sanford statewide, giving him 37 and Sanford 27 of the state's convention delegates, as Cleveland was giving Wallace a 3368-vote margin, 7253 to 3895.

In the three-county 27th judicial district, Clevelanders won with Judge Lewis Bulwinkle, who defeated Solicitor Bill Morris, and lost with former Judge John Mahoney, defeated by recently-appointed Judge Ralph Phillips. Cleveland supported Bulwinkle 5999 to 3399, and Mahoney 6338 to 4321.

The county went with the state-wide leader for governor, Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles by 730 votes over H. Pat Taylor, 5845 to 5115, and supported U. S. Senator B. Everett Jordan over U. S. Representative Nick Galifianakis by 866 votes, 6180 to 5314. The Senator trailed the Representative in state-wide voting.

The county supported the three winners in the four-man race for the North Carolina House of Representatives in the three-county 40th district. They are Dr. Jack Hunt, Representative Robert (Bob) Jones, and Representative Robert Z. Falls, who finished in that order, trailed by Earl Owensby.

Owensby protested to the county elections board the fact that the "Dr" was used with the name of Dentist Hunt, but the state board secretary indicated he felt there was not sufficient grounds to invalidate the Hunt vote total.

Chemistry Group Taps Maner

Five outstanding high school chemistry students were recognized in Chapel Hill last week at an awards luncheon by the N. C. section, American Chemical Society.

Students honored were William Franson Scott and Charles Joseph Florier, both of Durham high school; Shawn Love of Jordan high school, Durham; Robert Sommers Maner of Kings Mountain high school; and Mark Elliott Wagman of J. O. Sanderson high school, Raleigh.

Maner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Maner of Kings Mountain.

department of chemistry presided at the awards luncheon. He selected the five finalists from some 150 students.

Selected for their performances on the chemistry examination of the 1972 N. C. Academic Contest, they were awarded chemistry and physics handbooks and each of their schools will receive $100 for their science departments.

Wagman was chosen by an ACS committee as the top finalist. He will receive a plaque at the N. C. section, ACS meeting in miniature at Gross laboratory, Duke university, Friday. All five finalists will be recognized at this meeting.

Dr. Donald C. Ciche of the UNC

The growth rate of jobs for scientists and engineers which increased during the 1960's slowed in 1970, according to a Bureau of Labor Statistics survey. The 1970 figure of 1,075,000 is approximately the same as the 1969 figure.

Jiche and Dr. Forest C. Hentz of the N. C. State Chemistry department made up the chemistry section of the N. C. Academic contest this year.

THANK YOU

I deeply appreciate the vote and support given me by the people of Cleveland County in the May 6th Primary Election and look forward to your continued support in the second primary election, Saturday, June 3rd.
