

—Oops! It's Gene, Not Nelson

BOO BOO DEPARTMENT: Seems we've been giving Nelson Connor credit for the accomplishments his brother, Gene, has made for the Champion's Landscaping Number Two softball team. Gene's been hitting some home runs and is usually good for three hits a game. Nelson says by giving him the credit we've been "ruining his reputation".

Champion's Number One team will be playing in the big Kobax Tournament in Chattanooga, Tenn., this weekend. The tournament is probably the most prestigious in slowpitch softball, except, of course, the national events. Sixty-four teams annually battle it out for the Kobax crown and if you get in the loser's bracket early, you face the unenviable task of playing every hour until you either are eliminated or get ba~~tt~~ into the thick of battle.

City May Waive Utility Costs Of Rescue Squad

The city board of commissioners Monday night passed a resolution waiving charges for light, and water and gas for the rescue squad, pending an investigation of its legality.

Members of the local United Fund organization requested the action while praising the local squad for its outstanding services to the community.

One UF member, Marvin Teer, told the board that of the squad's $5,514 budget, $1,175 are utility costs. The cost of a telephone which is approximately $60 per month, was included in that amount.

City attorney Jack White pointed out that prior to 1969, it was illegal for cities to contribute tax money to rescue squads. However, White said that he had introduced into legislation that year a bill which would make such contributions legal if they were necessary expenses and that the local Government Commission had recommended it be made a statewide law. White said he did not know what action the 1971 legislature took on the bill but that he would investigate the matter and report back to the board.

Another UF member, Schools Supt. Donald Jones, pointed out that the rescue squad's control of traffic played a major role in restoring power to Kings Mountain during last Friday's power failure.

Hospital administrator Grady Howard also spoke out for the squad, pointing out that its free ambulance service is a "great benefit to the community."

In other action Monday night, the board:
 1) Passed ureliminary assessment for two road improvement petitions, for paving Williams Street from Edgemont to dead-end and for curb and gutter of Maner Road from Phifer Road to dead-end.
 2) Approved several amendments to the city codes. The amendments are as follows: A penalty of double the actual cost of a building permit for failure to comply with the ordinance before any actual work is begun; penalty of double the cost of the permit for moving buildings for those who begin this type of work without a permit; double cost for those who begin to demolish a structure without a permit; A $5 fee for additional inspections or inspection trips; a building permit will be required for the construction of any new building or repair estimated to exceed $100 before work is begun (the previous cost was $50); $5 for additional electrical inspections.

3) Passed a resolution requesting the Cleveland County Board of Commissioners to establish a program for solid waste disposal in the county that will include establishing and operating landfills.

4) Approved a request for rezoning 9,852 acres of land on East King Street from light industry to neighborhood business from Maude P. Harper, et. l. The petition states the site will be for the expansion of business and commerce in conjunction with existing neighborhood business.

5) Approved a request from Phillips Development Co. for the dedication of streets in the first part of the Northwoods subdivision.

6) Voted to call for a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. July 10 at City Hall on a request from John Dilling of Dilling Heating Company to rezone two tracts, one on the west side of York Road and the other on the east side of York Road, from neighborhood business to general business for the purpose of constructing a new building.

Five Permits Are Issued

The city clerk's office issued four permits for repair work or rezoning during the week ending Wednesday noon.

Jim Yarbrow, of 102 S. Sims Street, obtained a permit to repair a garage to his residence. Wade and Gladys Tignor of 821 Third street received a permit to repair their residence.

Jerome Strickland, of 803 Southwood Drive, obtained a permit to build a utility building.

Winston Grigg was issued a zoning permit to place a trailer in Block B of Stinnett Mobile Homes.

Mayor John Henry Moss said the city is in the process of working with various departments on the 1971-72 budget with a eye to presenting the final budget to the board of commissioners on June 25.

"At this point we can't tell what the total budget will be," he said.

City Clerk Joe McDaniel said Tuesday that tax listing print-outs had just been received that day from the county.

"They're for Number Four township and we've got to pick out Kings Mountain," McDaniel said.
