

TAXPAYERS ASK IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—Should a taxpayer contact the Internal Revenue Service to get his auto excise tax refund?
A—Generally, refunds are made to the purchaser by the auto manufacturers and importers. If you purchased an automobile between Aug. 15 and Dec. 31, 1971 and have not received your excise tax refund, contact the firm that sold you the car. However, if you were the importer of the auto, you would contact IRS directly.

office. There was dancing and refreshments at the party, but also some brief remarks by the candidate. Is the entire cost of my ticket eligible for the deduction or credit for political campaign contributions?
A—No, because the event was designed primarily to offer benefits of value to those attending. Consequently, your political contribution eligible for a credit or deduction is only the excess of the amount you paid for the ticket over the fair market value of all the benefits available to you. If the dinner or other function had been merely incidental to the essentially political nature of the event, the function would not be considered primarily a device to confer private benefits. To qualify as essentially political, the program must be primarily devoted to political speeches or discussions. In such a case, the entire cost of the ticket is eligible for the credit or deduction.

Q—I'm thinking of buying some shares of stock. Is there any tax advantage in putting the stock in my wife's name as well as my own?
A—Yes, if the dividends exceed $100. This is because the owner of stock is entitled to exclude no more than $100 in ordinary dividends from his income. But if the stock is jointly owned, the owners may receive as much as $100 each individuals tax free, depending on the amount of each owner's share of the dividends as determined under local law.

Q—I'll be turning 65 this year. Are there any special tax benefits for persons my age?
A—Yes. There are several benefits for those 65 years of age or over. For example, there is an extra $750 exemption for age, and special provisions covering the sale of a personal residence. These are explained in IRS Publication 554, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans." Send a post card to your Internal Revenue district office for a free copy.

YAMS STATIC

North Carolina farmers, who produce almost a third of the nation's supply of sweet potatoes, would like to see America's eating habits change to include more yams. The per capita consumption of sweet potatoes has remained almost constant for several years at slightly less than six pounds. A slight drop in consumption of the fresh product has almost been offset by a slight increase in processed potatoes.

Tie For First In Grid Contest, Rules Changed For Final Three

SPTS — TIE FOR FIRST... Leonard Wright of Kings Mountain and Ed Spencer of Gastonia tied for the first place prize in the Herald's football contest last week and will split first and second place money.

They were two of five persons who missed just one of the 13 picks and will be receiving a check of $12.50 each.

Third place went to Mrs. H. O. Williams, who came up just one point shy of Wright and Spencer on the tie-breaker.

The five persons who missed just one pick were all wrong on the Crest-Cherryville contest. All predicted a Crest victory, but the game went to the Ironmen, 14-7.

Wright and Spencer had a tie-breaker guess of 35 points each on the WM-Shelby game. The correct total was 44, as Shelby won the game 32-12.

Mrs. Williams predicted a tie-breaker score of 34, thus, she wound up with the $5 third prize.

Others missing just one game were Harold Roark and Tom Sanders, both of Kings Mountain. Roark had a tie-breaker guess of 30 points, while Sanders predicted 24.

Several entries last week came in past the 12 noon Friday deadline, so work extra hard on getting your entries in on time. We've also changed the rules slightly for the final three contests. Only one entry will be allowed each participant and entries must be submitted on the ballot found on the football contest page.

Detective Sgt. Paul Parlee reported a plate glass window at a store owned by Brady Martin was broken but nothing was reported missing. The window was valued at about $150.

A coin machine across the street from the store at a wash-eight also had the glass broken out. Crackers and cakes were stolen from the machine but no attempt was made at the money box.

George McGovern isn't the only one with a Credibility Problem.

Meet Nick Galifianakis.

"Nick's doing nothing but spreading lies."
 —Sen. B. Everett Jordan

Tough talk? Sure. Especially coming from a respected, mild-mannered man like Sen. Everett Jordan.

Remember the primary election? That's when Nick Galifianakis distorted Sen. Jordan's record. Not once. But time and time again.

For example, Mr. Galifianakis ran radio ads all over North Carolina. He claimed the endorsement of Sen. Sam Ervin. 2 People trusted those ads.

Those same people voted for Mr. Galifianakis —because of those ads.

The ads were not the truth.

Sen. Ervin said he "repeatedly informed" Mr. Galifianakis that he was for Sen. Jordan. 3 But the truth never caught up with Mr. Galifianakis' tall tale.

Mr. Galifianakis won the primary election. Sen. Jordan lost.

"Galifianakis can't be trusted in anything he tells you."
 —Sen. B. Everett Jordan

Remember Sen. Jordan pointed out that Mr. Galifianakis "can't be trusted in anything he tells you." 3

Mr. Galifianakis spread another story. He said that Sen. Jordan would step down once he was re-elected.

That hurt the Jordan campaign.

"That is nothing but a vicious political lie," Sen. Jordan said. 4

But the truth never caught up with Mr. Galifianakis' wild charge.

Mr. Galifianakis spread other stories about Sen. Jordan. He said Sen. Jordan was against Social Security. 5

He also said Sen. Jordan was against the farmer, and that he had done little or nothing for rural North Carolinians. 6

Sen. Ervin pointed out that Sen. Jordan has been a friend of the farmer in Congress. 7

But too many people believed the slick politics of Mr. Galifianakis.
