This Is The Law

By ROBERT E. LEE
(Sponsored by The Lawyers of North Carolina)

INTERNATIONAL CRIME

A person in England gives poison to a person there, who is ignorant of its nature, to be administered to a person in the United States. The poison is administered in the United States, and the victim dies. Where is the crime committed?

The crime has been committed in the United States. The person committing the crime through the innocent agent may be punished here if he can be found within the United States or extradited.

An Italian murders a Frenchman on board an American ship on the high seas. The courts of what country may punish the murderer?

The federal courts of the United States have jurisdiction.

It is a rule of international law that vessels, whether they belong to the government itself, or to private citizens, are regarded as part of the territory of the nation under whose flag they sail, and that the country of the flag may punish for crimes committed on board, either by her own subjects or foreigners, wherever the vessel may be.

A ship on the high seas carries its nationality and the law of its own nation with it, and in this respect has been likened to a "floating island" of the country whose flag it flies.

If the vessel is a private one and is in the port or navigable waters of a foreign country, in the absence of treaty provisions, it is also subject to the laws of the foreign country. The foreign country has concurrent jurisdiction with the country whose flag the vessel flies. Thus, if a seaman on a British merchant vessel should kill another seaman while the vessel is in the port of the United States, either nation would have jurisdiction to punish him for murder, without regard to his nationality.

Bank Offers Ident Check

Carolina State Bank, at 401 East Franklin Ave., in Gastonia offers I-Denta-Check.

President John Houser announced, that beginning immediately, those customers who wish to have their picture on personalized checks can do so at Carolina State Bank. The checks cost a small amount more than regular checks, provide instant identification, and make check cashing more convenient.

Mr. Houser stated that the bank would make the photograph of the customer at the bank's location and order the checks for them. The checks will be delivered within the regular order time for printed checks.

Mr. Houser said "We are happy to offer this to our customers. With the increase in check losses, identification problems, and inconvenience to merchants, we feel that the I-Denta-Check will offer our customers a new service for check cashing."

Carolina State Bank is the first bank in this area to offer this service.

KMHS Host To VICA Meet

Kings Mountain high school was host yesterday to Region VI of the North Carolina VICA leadership development workshop.

Workshops for school leaders including presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, treasurers, parliamentarians and editors featured the session.

Myers Hambricht, host coordinator, introduced the program and KMHS Principal Jake Atkinson welcomed the visitors to Kings Mountain.

Among District VI officers is Cindy Brown of Kings Mountain who is treasurer.

Kings Mountain VICA advisors are Paul Fulton, Edgar Guy, Myers Hambricht, William Young, and Mrs. Lillian Whitworth.
