Foot Sales Are Higher

EXTON Pa. — Foot Mineral company reported that net sales for the year 1972 were $93,653, the 923, up one per cent from the $92,772,301 reported for the previous year. Strong sales in the fourth quarter, especially to automotive, aluminum and steel related customers were responsible for the year to year increase.

For the year 1972, there was a net loss of $6,492,538 after an extraordinary charge to operations in the amount of $6,737,669. This charge was the result of the decision previously announced on December 13, 1972 to dispose of certain plants and equipment. Previously announced as about $9,009,000, the extraordinary charge was reduced by tax effects and further refinements of expected costs of disposal.

There were net earnings of $106,827 prior to the extraordinary charge and the company's equity in a loss of a joint venture. The company's share of the loss of Foote Allevard, a French producer of foundry specialty products, was $161,696 which reduced net earnings to $245,131 before the extraordinary loss.

For the year 1971, there were net earnings of $2,133,092 before an extraordinary charge of $355,380.

Tar Heel Spotlight

The site of Fort Dobbs, North Carolina's only remaining tangible reminder of the state's participation in the French and Indian War, has passed a major milestone toward becoming a State Historic Site.

State Historic Site in this context means one of those historically significant properties owned by the state and maintained by the Department of Art, Culture and History for public visitation. Currently there are seventeen such state-owned sites.

The 32-acre Iredell County property located near Statesville is the beneficiary of a recent grant of $43,481 from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the Department of the Interior. The Federal grant will be administered by the Office of Archives and History, and it matches a similar amount in locally raised and state-appropriated funds.

Bringing the Fort Dobbs site to its present and anticipated state of development has been largely the result of local initiative in Iredell County. Funds have been raised by the county historical society and some of the land has been donated by the D. ... and by an individual property owner.

Noted as a major archaeological site, the Fort Dobbs location in 1970 was entered on the National Register of Historic Places, the nation's official list of significant historic properties. Originally constructed in the wilderness to protect our "western frontier," the site is now only two miles from the intersection of I-40 and I-77 and within an hour's drive of such major population centers as Charlotte and the Piedmont Triad. Development plans call for further uncovering of the archaeological remains of the Fort and when structurally documented, the reconstruction of its log bastions and curtain walls. The actual fort site covers only one acre, but the surrounding land will be utilized for picnicking, hiking, nature study, and the like.

A visitor center building proposed in conjunction with long-range development will offer an educational interpretive program on the early frontier life of English settlers and the role played by Fort Dobbs in this time frame.

Final details of land acquisition are now being completed, and it is anticipated that the construction of picnic areas and nature trails will begin this summer. When completed they will be opened for public use.

The Veterans Corner

Editor's Note: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q.—Is there a limit on the amount of G. I. loan a veteran can get?

A.—The amount of the home loan is a matter between the veteran and the lending institution. However, there is a maximum on the portion of the loan that the Veterans Administration can guarantee—60 per cent of the loan, not to exceed $12,500.

Q.—I am insured under a "V." prefixed National Service Life Insurance policy. Can I take out more insurance?

A.—Yes. A recent law (92-188) allows veterans with that type of coverage to buy paid up additional life insurance with their annual insurance dividends. Write the insurance center where you pay your premiums (St. Paul or Philadelphia), if you have not received an application form.

By-Ways Of Safety

A column of timely news and information on highway safety prepared by the North Carolina Governor's Highway Safety Program.

In a recent review of the limitations placed on drivers convicted of driving under the influence for the first time, one judge entered this notation on his order:

"Subject is not permitted to drive while drunk." That was the full extent of the limitations imposed by a court on a driver who had been convicted of driving with a breathalyzer reading considerably above .10 per cent.

To be sure, most of the other sets of limitations imposed by various judges were more reasonable and responsible. However, the review served to show a serious lack of uniformity in the application of North Carolina's limited license law.

Traffic safety officials do not necessarily feel that the law, which permits a person who has been convicted of driving under the influence for the first time to receive restricted driving privileges so he can continue to work, should be scrapped. Virtually all agree, however, that the law should be applied in a systematic manner to prevent excesses such as the one noted above.

In a comprehensive plan designed to more effectively deal with the drunken driver, the Governor's Highway Safety Program is advocating a specific set of penalties and administrative procedures keyed to the seriousness of the problem drinking indicated in each case.

Physicians, researchers and safety administrators agree that the person who is arrested with a blood alcohol level considerably higher than .10 is a problem drinker—a person with a specific medical problem which must be treated. This belief is based on research which shows that normal social drinkers rarely, if ever, are able to consume enough alcoholic beverages to achieve a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of .10 per cent.

The plan developed by the Governor's Highway Safety Program specifies the following penalties and administrative procedures for first convictions:

1. 0.05 to 0.10 BAC—60 day revocation of license with the sentence served entirely on probation.

2. 0.10 to 0.20 BAC—Revocation for one year with the first 90 days being active revocation and the remaining nine months on probation.

3. 0.20 and above—one year revocation and one year on probation with mandatory review and possible action by the State's Medical Review Board. In cases involving these higher BAC levels, the medical review board may add to the condition of probation.
