tion to their communities' life of people who have been mentally ill is a most crucial step in bringing them back to mental health, just as rehabilitation is in, say, cases of bodily crippling from accident or injury where muscles must be re-trained.

Here is where America's "halfway houses" play a significant but often over-looked role.

A halfway house is defined as a non-medical facility, in which residents live as though they were in their own homes, working during the day or other occupied.

The halfway house—halfway between illness and full recovery—provides a supporting environment through offering room and board, a pleasant atmosphere, supervision in the activities of daily living and the chance for community involvement.

Sometimes the halfway house serves patients coming from their homes, rather than only those returning from a hospital or other institution. In these cases, the halfway house serves as an alternative to hospitalization.

That halfway houses are serving a vital part in the attack on mental illness is shown by a recent report from the Biometry Branch of the National Institute of Mental Health, of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The number of psychiatric halfway houses in the U. S. is increasing, says the report, and there are now 183 halfway houses serving the mentally and emotionally disturbed. These are what are called "free-standing" or separate from—and are in addition to—similar services provided by their mental health facilities as such as state mental hospitals.

The growth and development of halfway houses reflects the

Makes Refund
Over $200,000

Greenboro - Winn-Dixie, Inc., one of the nation's large retail grocery firms, has agreed to refund to the general public nearly a quarter of a million dollars it overcharged its customers in North and South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, and Florida, the Internal Revenue Service announced today.

The refunds, to be completed by January 5, 1974, will be made by reducing prices on grocery, meat and produce items below the levels permitted under Phase IV regulations.

The Raleigh Division of Winn-Dixie, which serves 135 stores in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, will refund a total of $109,753.46. The breakdown by department is groceries, $9,158.16; meats, $18,353.14; and produce, $72,242.16.

Price refunds amounting to $143,585.93 also will be made at 235 stores in Florida and South Georgia operated by the firm's divisions in Jacksonville and Miami.

The refunds are the result of an investigation begun August 22 by the IRS that revealed the firm was not in compliance with the regulations of the Economic Stabilization Act. The investigation covered the period July 19 to September 9, 1973.

Horror Flicks
At Joy Here

"Twice the evil—double the shock!" sum up the spine-tingling quality of the entertainment that will be presented to patrons of the Joy Theatre, when two terror-thrillers open on the same program there Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Produced by Hammer, the company whose name is synonymous with horror pictures, "Hands of the Ripper" and "Twins of Evil," both photographed in Technicolor, are Universal releases.

"Hands of the Ripper" exploits the macabre theory that the daughter of Jack the Ripper was responsible for a series of "ex-murders" in mid-Victorian London. "Twins of Evil" gets its plot from beautiful, identical twins who become involved with vampires and witchcraft. One twin is converted to the blood-sucking exotic cult; the other almost loses her life as a result of her sister's taste for human blood.

In "Hands of the Ripper," which was directed by Peter Sasdy from a screenplay by L. W. based on an original story by Edward Spencer Shew, Eric Porter plays a psychiatrist who befriends a schizophrenic wife, Angharad Rees, and eventually is murdered by her. Jane Merrow stars as the blind fiancée of Porter's son, and guest star Dora Bryan is a clairvoyant. Derek Godfrey also stars as a Peer who is suspect in the murders committed by Miss Rees. Aida Young produced.

Mary and Madeleine Collinson, actual sisters, play the title characters in "Twins of Evil," which was directed by John Hough from a screenplay by Tudor Gates for producers Harry Fine and Michael Style. Peter Cushing stars as the girls' puritanical uncle and Dennis Price co-stars as the terrified servant of the chief vampire played by screen newcomer Damien Thomas. Also starring are Isobel Black, Kathleen Byron and David Warbeck.

Could you afford a new washer if prices jumped?

That's why railroads are essential.

We can't promise a price freeze on washing machines. But we can say that shipping by rail remains one of the best bargains you'll find. That's one of the reasons Southern and other railroads are so popular with appliance makers. In fact, 71% of all household appliances are shipped by rail.

And shipping by rail is as dependable as it is economical. Maybe that's why railroads handle twice as much intercity freight as trucks. Two hundred times as much as airlines.

Which is why you need railroads. And why you need Southern.
