Tech, Gardner-Webb Form Cooperative Degree Program

Dr. James B. Petty, president of Cleveland County Technical Institute, and Dr. Craven E. Williams, president of Gardner-Webb College, have announced the establishment of a cooperative program which will enable students from Cleveland Tech who earn an associate degree in general education or business administration to continue their studies at Gardner-Webb College and earn a baccalaureate degree.

"Students involved in this program will be 'clustered' in small groups which will stay together until the bachelor's degree requirements have been fully met," explained Dr. Williams. "Most of the course requirements will be offered at night." Dr. Petty characterized the program as "an extremely beneficial one" for

Notice! Photos Must Go

Notice!
The Mirror-Herald has a thick file of wedding, engagement and anniversary photos it would like to get rid of.

If you have a photo in either of these categories we would appreciate your dropping by and picking them up.

We will run this notice a couple of more issues and then we will destroy the photos to clear out the file.

Cleveland Tech. "Many of our students are quite capable of earning the bachelor's degree, but for various reasons, cannot attend class except in the evening. Now they will have an opportunity to continue their education at Gardner-Webb basically on the same schedule they have followed at Cleveland Tech."

The two presidents agree that the cooperative program is very much in keeping with the community service philosophy of the two institutions.

"We feel this will minimize the necessity of duplicating course offerings at the two schools, and will greatly enhance the educational opportunities of the community," Williams stated. "I feel this to be a most appropriate partnership between two area institutions which share a common goal, and yet have different institutional characteristics and capabilities."

The first cluster of students will begin their studies at Gardner-Webb College March 29, 1977. Classes will be held four nights a week from 6 to 9:45, Monday through Thursday for six weeks. The cost will be $40 per semester hour.

Students interested in the program are asked to contact either Dr. Noel R. Lykins, vice president for student services at Cleveland County Technical Institute or Dr. Thomas J. McGraw, executive vice president and academic dean at Gardner-Webb College.
