

Sprouse-Mauney Vows Spoken On Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. William Kemp Mauney, III, who were wed Saturday in a Valentine wedding, are on a wedding trip to Beech Mountain and afterwards will be at home at Lake Montona.

Miss Debbie Ann Sprouse became Mr. Mauney's bride in a 7 p. m. formal wedding in Saint Matthew's Lutheran Church. The Rev. Robert Eugene Allen heard the exchange of vows, using the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. L. E. Hinnant was organist, Christopher Cole was trumpeter and Mrs.

Laurin Whisnant sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee" before the exchange of vows.

The altar of the church was enhanced by white tapers in four wrought-iron candelabrum arranged with red roses and background greenery.

Arthur Sprouse escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. The bride's wedding gown was an Original Bridal Choice gown in white Quana Knit, the bodice featuring an empire waistline, deep V neckline and long slender sleeves.

The floor-length skirt was a full A-line design and further enhanced by a long, flowing Chapel length detachable cape with hood bordered in elegant white maribou. For "something old", she added the pearls worn by her sister at her wedding and carried a bouquet of orchids and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Steven Wells attended her sister as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. David Logan of Charlotte, Mrs. Bill Herndon of Carrboro, Miss Martha Jane Mauney and Mrs.

David Faunce, both of Kings Mountain, sisters of the bridegroom. Mrs. Rowland Turner of Kings Mountain was honorary bridesmaid and her daughter, Natalie Elizabeth Turner, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

All the attendants wore formal-length gowns of Flamingo red Quana featuring long, flowing set-in capes and square necklines and designed by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Edna Summitt. They carried white fur muffs and wore dyed-to-match slippers.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Groomsmen were Jimmy Mauney, cousin of the bridegroom; David B. Faunce, Rowland G. Turner, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom, all of Kings Mountain, and Sandy Bell of Charlotte. Stephen Scott Wells, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer and carried the satin pillow made by his mother and used in her wedding.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother chose a long formal of pale green featuring chiffon sleeves and a white orchid shoulder corsage.

The bridegroom's mother was gowned in a formal-length design of hot pink chiffon and wore a shoulder corsage of baby green orchids.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents after the ceremony in the Church Fellowship Hall,

Bolin-George Wedding Vows Exchanged

David Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Debbie Susan Bolin to Mark Steven George, Sun., February 20 at 3 p. m.

The Rev. Dwight Edwards, assisted by the Rev. Mal Schuman, officiated during the double-ring ceremony and the organist was Frances Lall, soloist, Linda Dixon. Special music included "Love Never Filleth" and "Bless These Hands."

The church was decorated with five-seven branched candelabra with traditional palms. Max Bolin gave his daughter in marriage and John George Jr. served as best man for his son.

The bride carried a nosegay of starburst poms centered with white cymbidium orchids. Her wedding gown, an original design by David Harris, was created of ivory silk chiffon and imported French alencon lace posed over faille taffeta. The lace bodice featured a horse with lace scallops. A crushed cummerbund caught up with lace motifs encircled the waist. Full bishop sleeves were trimmed in lace at the wrists. The flowing circular skirt had back fullness which dipped to a chapel-length train. The gown was topped off with a chapel-length mantilla veil of ivory English tulle with wide border of alencon lace scallops and was caught to a lace camelot cap.

Miss Janice Bolin, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a beige dress with small floral print, capped sleeves and tucked empire bodice and beige wide-brimmed hat. She carried a nosegay of yellow garza daisies with baby's breath.

Wearing the same style dress as the maid of honor were the bridesmaids, Barbara Medlin, Nancy Hord, Mrs. David Bolin and Mrs. Bart George, sister-in-laws of the bride and groom, all of Kings Mountain, and Susan Richards of Charlotte.

Honorary bridesmaids were Pam Davis of Raleigh and Sandy Vinson of Highlands.

At the register were Becky Lawson of Spruce Pine and Linda Cochran of New Canaan, Conn.

Flower girl was Tracy Shuford of Stoneville, cousin of the bride, and ring bearer was Tommy Chapman of Kings Mountain, also a cousin of the bride.

Groomsmen were Myron and Bart George, brothers of the groom, David Bolin, brother of the bride, Jacob Bridges and Bud Bumgardner, all of Kings Mountain.

Roses are red, violets are blue. With the annual cupid's holiday yesterday, the Mirror-Herald reprints, while it isn't exactly a Valentine, but a bit of poetry that came to us several years ago from Matilda Dedmon, in the form of a piece of wrapping paper used about the turn of the century. The copy is quite indicative of the good old days and a reminder of the time when the local stores where the principal markets for the farmer's output of eggs, butter and other similar products.

The poetry is pretty interesting and here are a few samples:

- Clothing for the naked,
- Glasses for the blind;
- Shoes for the barefooted,
- Gloves that are lined;
- Curtains for the windows,
- Shoestrings and laces;
- Lamps, wicks and oil to light the dark places.
- Dried fruits, canned goods,
- Everything to eat.
- Caps for the head,
- And socks for the feet.
- Calico of the finest,
- that never fades.
- Woolen goods for dresses,
- ribbons for old maids.
- Tobacco for men folk hats for the ladies,
- Toys for the children,
- bottles for the babies.
- Queensware, glassware,
- pitchers and bowls,
- Leather for harness and leather for soles.
- Straps and strings,
- buckles and screens,
- The finest of silks
- and the coarsest of jeans.
- Powder for faces,
- Powder for hunters;
- Axes for choppers,
- remedies for grumters.

Miss Debbie Sprouse and Kemp Mauney, who were wed Saturday, were honored Friday at a cocktail party and rehearsal dinner-dance at Gaston Country Club.
