The bride's wedding gown was an Original design by David Harris of Ivory silk chiffon and imported French Alencon lace posed over faille taffeta. The lace bodice featured a horse-shoe neckline outlined with lace scallops. A crushed cummerbund caught up with lace motifs encircled the waist. Full Bishop sleeves were trimmed in lace at the wrists. The flowing circular skirt had back fullness which dipped to a Chapel length train. Her Chapel length mantilla veil of Ivory English tulle was bordered with Alencon lace scallops and was draped from a lace Camelot cap. She carried a nosegay of starburst poms centered with white cymbidium orchids.
