Staff Changes Are Made

BOILING SPRINGS - Two administrative staff changes have been announced by Gardner-Webb College President Craven E. Williams. Robert W. Abrams, director of admissions since 1967, has been appointed to the newly-created position of director of church relations, and Richard M. Holbrook, associate director of admissions, has been named director of admissions, replacing Abrams. The changes are effective July 1.

According to Dr. Williams, the creation of the office of church relations will enable Gardner-Webb "to express more emphatically our kinship with the churches as well as the denomination." "Gardner-Webb has kept close ties with the church since its beginning, and over the years, a number of people have nurtured this relationship," he explained. "Now we have the opportunity to make this relationship even more vibrant."

From his 15 years of experience, Robert Abrams is fully knowledgeable of all aspects of the college. The fact that he is an ordained minister makes him uniquely qualified for this new position.

Abrams joined the Gardner-Webb staff as director of promotions in 1962 following 17 years as a Baptist pastor. From 1965 to 1967, he served as director of development. Prior to beginning his career at Gardner-Webb, he was pastor of First Baptist Church, Sylva, for nine years. He has also served as pastor of Deaverview Baptist Church, Asheville, and pastor of Rising Sun Baptist Church, Rising Sun, Ind.

A native of Rutherfordton, Abrams received an A. A. degree from Gardner-Webb College and a B. A. degree from Wake Forest University. He was awarded the bachelor of divinity degree by the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

He is married to the former Elva Mae Spake of Casar. They are the parents of three daughters and a son.

A native of Elkin, Holbrook is completing his first year as associate director of admissions. He joined the Gardner-Webb staff in August after two years as director of admissions at Limestone College where he was responsible for recruitment, financial aid and veteran affairs programs. He is a former teacher and basketball coach at Chase High School in Forest City, and a U. S. Army veteran having served in the military intelligence branch.

Holbrook is a graduate of Gardner-Webb. He earned a B. S. degree at Mars Hill College and received a masters degree in education from Boston University.

He and his wife, the former Kathryn Evans, have one child.
