

Tech Winter Graduation Held Here

The B. N. Barnes Auditorium in Kings Mountain was the setting for Cleveland Tech's Winter graduation which was held at 7:30 p. m., on Fri., Dec. 16.

The business administration curriculum had the largest number of graduates, 47, while the general education curriculum had a close second of 45. Adults receiving degrees, diplomas, or certificates numbered 243 with 15 receiving their high school diplomas.

Dr. Edgar Boone, professor of the Department of Adult and Community College Education and an assistant director of the Agricultural Extension Service at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, was the speaker. The department which he heads is one the largest of its types in the nation.

The Winter graduates received their degrees, diplomas, or certificates from Dr. Noel R. Lykins, vice-president for Student Services, which included Associate of Applied Science Degrees, Associate of General Education Degrees, Vocational Diplomas, and 15 High School Diplomas.

The invocation was given by the Reverend Olin Whitener, pastor, Shiloh Presbyterian in Grover. Dr. James B. Petty, president, congratulated the graduates and warmly welcomed the families and friends of the graduates attending this exercise.

Twenty students were recognized by Dr. Alvin M. Sherlin, vice-president, for outstanding student awards. Outstanding student awards are given in each curriculum to the students who distinguish themselves in scholastic achievement, performance, and maturity of purpose. These students are:
