WATER, WATER, WATER — Phillip Wright of 411 Scotland Dr. called Tuesday during the afternoon rainstorm to have a picture made of the problem he has been trying to get corrected for a year — surface drainage across his property. The surface water draining from Scotland between Lee St. and Phifer Rd. washes across Wright's property. Wright wants the city to do something about this.

Austin

To Speak

At Rotary

Ledford Austin, acting director of the regional office of HUD, Greensboro, will be guest speaker at today's Kings Mountain Rotary Club luncheon.

Rotarians meet at noon at the Kings Mountain Country Club.

John Moss arranged the program. Austin is a Tar Heel native and a graduate of Duke University.

Kistler

To Tour

Holy Land

On July 17 Don D. Kistler will leave New York with another group of tourists for the Holy Land.

Lavon Riley, president of World Tours, Inc., says this will probably be one of the most informed tours going to Israel. "Brother Kistler has traveled Israel from one end to the other and is very knowledgeable of the Holy Bible, both Old and New Testaments," he said.

The 11-day tour will include a visit to Rome and to date about 50 persons have signed on. Kistler said there is still room for a few more in the group.

Kistler, who conducts a world-wide non-denominational mission from offices in Kings Mountain, has also written two books — "The Arithmetic of God" and "The Father and Sons Shall Be One."

"I am the scribe," Kistler said. "Jesus is the author."

Anyone interested in more information on Holy Land tours may contact Kistler at 104 N. Dilling St., or at 739-7986.

Public Hearing Held

The second of three public hearings explaining the Small Cities funding program was held Tuesday at 1 p. m. at the Kings Mountain Depot Center.

Major John H. Moss and David Long, of the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources, spoke to a large group of senior citizens attending the meeting, explaining the city's plan for applying for a three-year comprehensive grant for neighborhood improvements.

A pre-application is due at HUD headquarters in Greensboro by May 15. The final application is due Aug.

30 and funding, if approved, is expected by mid-October.

Long explained, "In the past Kings Mountain has been assured certain grants, but the Small Cities program is a competitive one. Kings Mountain's application must generate enough guideline points in order to be approved for funding."

The comprehensive grant, if approved, would mean about $3-million more federal dollars over a three year period.

The city officials have a target area selected which will come closer to assuring the city an approved application. The area concerns the Phenix Mill area and surrounding area. Mayor Moss said, however, other areas may be included in the program. He said a plan to work on "a street here and a water system there" will not generate the necessary points to assure the city the Small Cities grant.

The Small Cities program is for improvements to streets such as paving, curb and gutter and sidewalks; improvements to electrical, water and sewer and natural gas systems; and housing rehabilitation. As are all HUD funding programs, the Small Cities grants are geared to low and moderate income neighborhoods.

Final Talent Show Tonight

The final night of talent competitions in the 21st annual Kings Mountain Kiwanis Club Talent Show will be held tonight at Barnes Auditorium.

The show begins at 7:30 p. m. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for youngsters up to 12 years old.

Performing tonight will be the previous winners from junior and high school class competition.

Proceeds from the talent show go into Kiwanis Community projects. Over $45,000 has been poured into the community by the club during the past 20 years. This year the funds are earmarked for four projects: Foster children's activities; uniforms for the Little League team; blood analysis equipment for Kings Mountain Hospital; and summer day camp for area youth.

Sign-Up Time Is Extended

Farmers wishing to participate in the cotton, feed grain and-or wheat programs will have an additional two weeks to sign up, Ralph Harrill County Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) announced.

Mr. Harrill said that Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland was extending the sign-up period for the programs from May 1 through May 15 because of changes announced March 29 in the programs. On that date Secretary Bergland authorized additional diversion of cropland under the cotton and feed grain programs and permitted wheat program participants to graze out their wheat or harvest hay on a percentage of their planted acreage.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture will issue weekly reports each Tuesday until the sign-up is completed. The date of the first report is set for April 26.
